Observes Birthday

Wednesday was the 57th birthday anniversary of Charles C. Barnard, well known farmer of Myard, who for the past forty years has made Cass county his home. Mr. Barnard arrived in this county in 1903 when a youth of 17 and has since been enrolled as one of the leading farmers of the county. During the time of the King Koin Carnival, Charley was one of the boosters with other of the leading farmers of the annual Farmer's day of the fall festival. The birthday was quietly observed and the many friends will wish him many more anniversaries.

Congress Seems To Abandon Hope Of Changing Draft

Showing of Need for Father Draft Causes Doubt of Any Action—Alotments to Be Upped

Washington, Sept. 25. (UP)—Congress today appeared to have abandoned hope of delaying the draft of fathers and to have turned instead to plans for increasing the living allowance of servicemen's families.

A dozen bills have been introduced calling for higher dependency allotments to make families better able to subsist when fathers are called for induction.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., still hoping their induction can be delayed, defended his bill to defer pre-war fathers until Jan. 1 in a radio address last night in which he said victory gained at the expense of broken homes would be a hollow triumph.

He said he was all for giving the army the men it needs, but insisted there are enough single men and 4-F's who could handle non-combat jobs and make drafting of fathers unnecessary.

There was also a strong move in congress to draft 300,000 unmarried and childless government employes in an attempt to slow the process of putting family heads in uniform.

Wheeler's bill is scheduled for senate floor debate Tuesday, with administration leaders predicting it will win less than 30 votes.

The main question on allotment increases seemed to be how much the present allowances of $59 a month for a wife, $62 for a wife and child and $19 for each additional child should be boosted.

The senate already has passed a measure allowing a wife and child $68 a month and $11 for each additional child.

President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations told congress yesterday these amounts were below the barest level of necessity and urged minimum allotments of $55 for a wife, $90 for wife and child and $20 for each additional child.

The closest any house measure comes to his proposal is one introduced by Rep. William B. Barry, D., N. Y., which would maintain the present $50 for wives but would provide $78 for a wife and child and $20 for each additional child.

Chairman Andrew J. May, D., Ky., of the House Military Affairs committee, said his group would chart its course of action at a preliminary meeting Tuesday.

Speaker S. Rayburn predicted the house would consider allotment increase legislation soon and probably pass it.

Navies Face Hard Task

London, Sept. 24. (UP)—U. S. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today that the American and British navies face their greatest task in the battle of defeat Japan.

The campaign against Japanese already has been costly and losses will continue, he said at a press conference.

He emphasized that naval forces must carry the brunt of the offensive in the Pacific, with a great number of light vessels including light aircraft carriers, a major need.

Knox urged Britain not to take the attitude that the major war effort will be over when Germany has been beaten. Prime Minister Churchill remarked on the subject still has not dispelled completely the feeling in America that England believes the main war is in Europe, he said.

RECEIVES LOVELY GIFT

Mrs. Tony Klimm from the Lewiston community, was a caller at the Journal today and presented the owner, Mrs. R. A. Bates, with a beautiful plant. The plant is a rare specimen of pink begonia, called the "Seven Sisters" variety and is one which Mrs. Klimm raised from a cutting of a plant she received as a gift from California. It is in full bloom and a thing of beauty. This thoughtfulness on the part of Mrs. Klimm is much appreciated by Mrs. Bates who is a lover of flowers.

Stimson Declines To Discuss The Marshall Question

Secretary of War States Generals are Placed Where it is Felt Most Needed

Washington, Sept. 23. (UP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson refused today to deny or confirm that Gen. George M. Marshall may be made Anglo-American command-in-chief but commented that generals are placed where they will be "of the greatest possible use."

Questioned at a press and radio conference about published assertions that the U. S. army chief of staff will be made commander of all Anglo-American forces throughout the world, Stimson said:

"In general, we don't put a general where we think he is not of the greatest possible use."

"Stimson inferentially denied suggestions that a change in assignments for Marshall would concern reporters to recently published laudatory articles on the chief of staff and added, "I believe others have answered that fully and freely."

Observers here believed that if Marshall is appointed to the global command position the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff—the "board of trustees" of the war—will undergo a change in composition and perhaps in function.

Bombers Raid Germany

London, Sept. 24. (UP)—A big force of British four-engined bombers sent a non-stop allied aerial offensive into its second day with a heavy block buster assault last night on Mannheim-Ludwigshafen, Germany's second largest inland port and a vital arms center.

Marauder medium member of the Eighth U. S. air force carried on the offensive by daylight. Escorted and supported by Spitfires, the Marauders attack on the air field targets in the Everlau-Fauville area. An air ministry communique announced that 32 bombers were lost in that raid and subsidiary attacks on the railroad junction of Aachen in western Germany near the Dutch and Belgium borders at Darnstadt, 20 miles south of Frankfurt, striking in the wake of American Flying Fortresses and other allied bombers they raided Nantes naval base in France and more than a dozen other targets in western Europe yesterday.

Congress Eyes Federal Employes As Draft Timber

Induction of Fathers Discussion Reveals Many Men in Service of Government Out of Draft

Washington, Sept. 24. (UP)—Congress looked to government employes as a possible source of draft manpower today as prospects became very dim for senate approval of the Wheeler bill to defer induction of fathers.

Further congressional moves in connection with the selective service calls will come next week probably within the pattern outlined by these two developments:

1. It was announced that Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey will be summoned to explain to a congressional committee why 150,000 single and 150,000 married-but-childless government employes have not been drafted.

2. One of the best informed administration sources in the senate predicted that Sen. Burton K. Wheeler's bill to delay drafting fathers until Jan. 1 would get "a maximum of 25 votes" in the senate next week.

A house military affairs subcommittee focused attention on the deferment of government employes while the senate military affairs committee was concluding hearings on the Wheeler bill.

The subcommittee said the figure of 300,000 deferred non-fathers in government service as a "conservative estimate" based on data submitted Aug. 15 by the selective service administration.

Chairman John M. Costello, D., Calif., pointed out that at this time selective service already announced all other sources had been exhausted and the induction of 446,000 fathers to complete 1943 quotas would be necessary.

The figures indicated that fewer than 117,000 of the 300,000 non-fathers in government service have been deferred. The rest, according to Robert M. Barnett, chairman of the war manpower commission committee on government deferments, "just haven't been called."

Members of the military affairs committee also plan to question Hershey concerning selective service's report that 6,136 male government employes between 18 and 37 have no draft status and are listed as "undrafted."

Rep. Forest Harness, R., Ind., said he was "particularly interested" in the status of civilian employes of the war department, where according to the selective service analysis, 71,833 single men and 83,477 childless married men are employed.

Mrs. Roosevelt Returns From 23,000 Mile Trip

First Lady Visits Wounded Soldiers at Guadalcanal But Misses Jap Air Raid

San Francisco, Sept. 24. (UP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was enroute to New York today to visit her oldest son, James, after a tour of Australia and the South Pacific area.

Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the mainland yesterday in an army Liberator, ending a war-theater trip of more than 23,000 miles with 17 island stops. She will report at once, she said to Norman Davis, national chairman of the Red Cross, on her trip.

Mrs. Roosevelt visited at Guadalcanal after two successive night bombings. She landed there just before an alert, but visited wounded soldiers at an island hospital.

"I watched the boys in the hospital when the alert sounded," she said. "Only two of them seemed disturbed. There was one whom I could not help, but the other one, I could not get through to. Then I went to a surface shelter."

The First Lady remarked that "London was more dangerous" than Guadalcanal during an air raid. She was there in 1942.

"I don't think I have ever worked as hard," Mrs. Roosevelt said. The president had asked that she visit as many soldiers, sailors and marines as possible.

"Everywhere," he said, "I found the boys interested in things at home and concerned about them. None ever talked about what he was going to get out of the war—such as bonus or special consideration."

She said they were puzzled over strikes and asked why they should occur. They were reasonable, however, she said, adding they simply could not understand why there should be any.

RUSSIAN FORCES NOW IN SIGHT OF KIEV, CAPITOL OF UKRAINE

Amos Alonzo Stagg Great Football Coach At 82 Years

Has Coached Through Three Wars of the Nation, 1898, 1917 and the Present Conflict

New York, Sept. 23. (UP)—He's 82, but he won't give up the football bench for a comfortable easy chair.

As usual his college of the Pacific Eleven started the season with a well earned victory so for the second time the United Press names as its coach of the week:

Amos Alonzo Stagg, "the grandfather of football."

He was born in one war and coached through three others. He thinks it is the football team which makes the men, not the men who make the team.

"The navy and the marines will have more and better officers by reason of continuing football," Stagg said. "This would hold true for the army also if the army had taken an opposite view of sports. I feel certain the army made a mistake. Football stimulates officer candidates to study in order to maintain eligibility."

Stagg's team this year has plenty of spectator appeal as usual. By passing and deception it defeated a more rugged Alameda, Cal., coast guard team Saturday 14 to 7. There is a colorful halfback named Johnny (Presto) Podesta of Modesto, Cal., that the boys like to write about and only two of the 51 squadmen are civilians. The rest are marine and naval trainees and they get just 45 minutes a day to practice fundamentals and scrumage.

He believes the schools that quit football for the duration made a mistake and that they will realize it later on.

"While some colleges were giving up football because they thought they had to, they might have gone on with a little more courage. The ones that did won't regret it."

Stagg's lifetime record is 328 won, 203 lost and 36 tied. He is a Yale graduate of 1888 and in 1890 started his first coaching job at Springfield, Mass., where Dr. James Naismith, the inventor of basketball was one of his players. After two years there in which his teams won only one game and lost 11, he went to the University of Chicago and remained for 41 years.

Consider Extension Of Manpower And Production Control

War Manpower Commission to Continue Control on West Coast to Forestall Service Legislation

Washington, Sept. 24. (UP)—The War Manpower Commission today considered extension of the strict manpower and production controls now in effect on the west coast in an effort to forestall the demands for national service legislation.

The proposed extension, a WMC official said, would embrace some of the 56 critical labor shortage areas. He indicated that this application would be broadened in areas or regions to meet crises like that on the west coast where, during the summer, aircraft and shipbuilding companies failed to meet production schedules.

its principal features include: 1. Controlled referral of workers to plants with the highest existing manpower priorities which are based on an urgency of the work being performed and the utilization of its manpower.

2. Withholding of new contracts and cancellation of old contracts, if necessary. If the needed product can be produced elsewhere.

3. A broader basis for occupational deferments to draft registrants.

Washington, Sept. 23. (UP)—Russian armored forces drove to within artillery range of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine and biggest German base in southern Russia, today while other soviet armies cut through the hedgehog defenses of Smolensk and Dnepropetrovsk.

(The official German news agency in a Berlin broadcast reported that nazis troops had evacuated the railroad junction of Poltava, 85 miles northwest of Dnepropetrovsk and 185 miles southeast of Kiev, according to plan after all military installations were destroyed.)

(A Madrid dispatch said well-informed sources in Berlin were expecting Smolensk to fall momentarily. German troops have begun pulling out of southern Russia from Poltava to the Crimea to prevent possible encirclement if Kiev is captured, the dispatch added.)

The capture of Kiev was believed perhaps only a matter of days, front dispatches said, as soviet troops pushed down both banks of the Desna river to capture Lusk, 13 miles northeast of the nazi-held bastion.

Other forces, closing in on Kiev along an 85-mile arc captured more than 180 localities in advances of up to 15 1-2 miles, including Yablodka, 20 miles to the east, and Pereyaslav, 47 miles to the south and five miles from the Dnieper river.

More than 2,000 Germans were killed in fighting on the Kiev front alone yesterday and 16 tanks were captured intact. At the railway junction of Zolotonosha, 75 miles south-east of Kiev and only 14 miles north of Cherkassy on the west bank of the Dnieper, the Russians seized scores of guns and much other booty.

Altogether, red armies liberated nearly 850 towns and villages in advances of up to 15 1-2 miles along the 750-mile front from Smolensk to the Sea of Azov. Nearly 16,000 Germans were killed.

The threat to Smolensk was increased by the fall of Demodov, 42 miles to the northwest, to a Russian flanking column. The capture of Demodov was announced by Premier Marshal Josef Stalin in a special order of the day that referred to it "a powerful German defense base."

Germany Acknowledges Losses
London, Sept. 24. (UP)—An obscurely-worded Berlin radio report of violent Russian attacks in many sectors today hinted that the red army may have forced a crossing of the Dnieper river north of Kiev.

Capt. Ludwig Serotinus, nazi radio commentator, said advanced soviet elements tried to cross the Dnieper at its confluence with the Pripiet river, 50 miles above Kiev.

The Russians were partly repelled and annihilated, Serotinus said. The ambiguity of his wording left room for the possibility that some of the crossing force was successful.
