"You mean I don't need any coupons for electricity?"

That's right, Mrs. Higgins.

No points, no coupons—no rationing of electricity.

Not that it's any less important than food, or fuel, or shoes. In fact, electric power has rightly been called the life-blood of war production.

But our government does ask all of us to use electricity wisely. Even though there's no shortage in sight, the making of electricity requires manpower, fuel, transportation and critical materials—things on which war has first call today.

So, be as careful with electricity as with coupons. Use all you need—but need all you use.
