Great Damage From Water In Mills Co. Iowa

Farm Lands Covering Several Thousand Acres Are Under Water and Crop Loss Great

While the Platte river at Plattsmouth is showing a fall, the swollen condition of the Missouri river is making an added problem for the residents of the lowlands along the river.

Residents and farmers along the Platte here in Cass county report a great deal of crop damage and much corn washed out, making a bad condition with the already late season.

One of the residents along the river, Fritz Siemonit, reports water on his land that had never before been covered by the overflowing Platte. Herman Weiss, who resides along the Platte river was rescued Monday night by neighbors as the river was racing around his place and has broken into the lakes, a popular spot with the fishermen. In the rapid raise of the river, a number of the cattle pastured on the Stull land near the mouth of the river were trapped and while it was possible to get to some there are several head that are missing.

The greatest loss and danger is however on the east side of the Missouri river where farm after farm is under water and families had to be evacuated by boat and cattle and chickens either secured on high ground or removed by barges and boats.

Hamburg, Iowa, again is menaced by the Missouri river as the Givens dike has given way and also one at Payne Junction and Percival, all adding to the menace.

Subsidy Payment

The closing date for paying February, March and April Cream and Milk Subsidy payment is June 30, 1944. If you have any milk or cream stubs for February, March or April, send them to the AAA Office, Weeping Water, Nebraska, so that a draft can be issued before June 30, 1944.

May and June payments will be made after July 1, 1944.

The Army needed corn for manufacture of various articles of war—they delegated the job of securing the corn to the AAA committee, and a good job has been done. The $6 million bushels needed has nearly all been pledged. With this in mind, the "freeze order" on corn should be lifted soon—perhaps about the 15th of June. In order to do this, it is necessary that the corn which has not or cannot be delivered to the elevators by that time, be placed under contract to be delivered at a later date—and this is the job we now have to do. Everyone who has pledged corn, or who intends to pledge it, should either contact their local precinct committeeman and sign a contract or should call at the county office during this week to do so. This is important—we are leaving it up to each of you to do so since corn not delivered or placed under contract before the "freeze order" is lifted, will not receive the 5 per cent shelling payment.

The High Cost of Living
The Low Price of Electricity

The giraffe and the turtle tell their own story . . . they help to remind us that electricity, almost alone among household necessities, is still sold at low pre-war prices.

You realize how low these prices are when you know that the average American family now gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years.

It's a real achievement to keep electric service cheap in spite of rising costs and taxes—and to keep it plentiful in the face of war's tremendous demands for power.

The credit goes largely to the hard-working men and women of your electric company. Their skill and experience—plus the planning and foresight of sound business management—have made this record possible.
