Mr. and Mrs. Otto DeLoughy and sons of Schuyler were Sunday afternoon callers at the Geo. Vogel home.

Mrs. Oscar Dill and Mrs. V. E. Livers have been busy contacting people in this part of the precinct. They are working hard to help this precinct meet their bond quota.

Mrs. Slatten of Omaha is staying at the Martin Zaar home this week. Mr. Zaar is still very weak.

Mrs. Ida Thiemann and Edna and Margaret Thiemann of Omaha were Monday evening callers at the Wm. Blum home. Margaret returned to her work in Omaha Tuesday after having spent the holidays at home.

Mrs. V. D. Livers and Mrs. Wm. Blum called at the W. A. Jones home Friday.

Mrs. Emma Colter is reported to be convalescing nicely after her recent operation.

Friends and relatives of Allen Blum, a former resident in this community have received word from New Guinea that he has now received the promotion from first lieutenant to captain, having recently received a distinguished air medal.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reinke entertained a group of young folks at a party Sunday evening honoring their son, Paul Eugene, on his 15th birthday. Games were enjoyed after which lunch was served.

Geo. Vogler lost a bolt in the floods. A horse was tossed about by the waters causing severe injuries. Bridges were washed out west of the O. K. Yardley place and Walter Thimmon home. The flood followed Pawnee creek, damaging many crops at the W. A. Jones home water stood four feet deep in the barn, hog house and barn yards. He had moved his livestock to higher ground as he lost 75 hogs in the flood two weeks earlier. Lee Everette, (dynamite Pete) who lives in a dugout on the Kleiser farm, moved out at two o'clock in the morning, after water came up three feet in his hut. Some hail accompanied the storm, but not as much as the storm two weeks earlier. At the Lloyd Larson home water surrounded the buildings and 50 chickens were drowned. In South Bend, water again stood in basements and flooded gardens.

Mrs. Anna Leddy spent a few days at the Martin Zaar home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Miller, Elaine and Eleanor and Clyde Paswell were weekend guests at the Homer Garnette home near Milford.
