Local Lady Finds Charm And Beauty In Colonial Scenes

Mrs. Frank L. Cummins visits New York and at Cooperstown Finds Many Places of Interest

Mrs. Frank L. Cummins, who has just returned home from a visit to some three months in New York, found many of the scenes of colonial life restored in the interesting settings of Cooperstown, one of the places that she visited while on the trip.

This quaint community, a bit of the colonial history restored and preserved, was the home of James Fenimore Cooper, and has been named in his honor. Here is to be found many of the spots that the great author of American Indian life has woven into his stories.

The town is located near the Catskill mountains and is a place of rare beauty and kept as one of the most desirable home sites in the state.

Here also is located the Baseball Hall of Fame, this being the scene of the activities of Arthur Doubleday, father of the American game of baseball, and in his memorial is inscribed the names of the great of the baseball world, selections being made at certain times by players and sport writers, from the men that have made history in the sport.

While at Cooperstown, Mrs. Cummins was a guest of Mrs. Ann Coleman Brown, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coleman, for many years residents of this city, she spending six pleasant weeks with the old friend.

Visiting in New York City, Mrs. Cummins was a guest of her son, Norris Cummins, and family and also with Mrs. Clara Coleman Howland, another of the former Plattsmouth residents.

The trip was one of the greatest enjoyment and pleasure to Mrs. Cummins who is spending a short time here, then goes to Lincoln to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Maude Fricke. Mrs. Cummins has leased her home to Mrs. Marjorie Worth.

If you did not, get one of these papers and look it over, then you will know what the King Korn Klub organization is. It would be a good idea to cut this out of the paper and keep it for future reference. The organization meeting is next Wednesday, August 30, at the Eagles Hall.

Since that time they have been making their way westward until they wound up their tour in the hands of the Cass county officers.

The boys gave the names of Eugene Sheldon, 16, Bill Colbroth, 17, Charles Spaulding, 16, and that they were serving long terms in the reformatory.

They were driving a car that it was revealed had been stolen from Mrs. Emaline Lee, Muscatine, Iowa. The car was a 1929 Ford tudor, license number 70-842 Iowa.

The boys stopped at Pacific Junction, Iowa, where they broke into a store and came on into this city when they were picked up.

No Pop Corn

St. Louis, Aug. 25. (UP)—There may be peanuts and soda pop and even hot dogs for the 1944 World Series baseball fans, but it looks as though popcorn will be a war casualty.

Blake Harper, manager of the Sportsman's park refreshment concession here, said today he has enough popcorn on hand for only two days. He said he has been unable to obtain the 10,000 pounds necessary to meet the demands for the remainder of the season.

Harper has appealed to the fans to sell him quantities as small as 100 pounds to avert what he calls "a break in morale on the baseball front." Sportsman's park is expected to be the scene of the World Series.
