mittie has not fulfilled its duty to the public."

Flannagan pointed out, too, that the testimony refuted charges that the agriculture department's acreage restrictions on tobacco—the only crop still restricted—were the cause of the shortage.

"Why, in 1944 the growers were authorized to plant 223,000 acres more than they actually planted," Flannagan said. "They never utilize the full acreage authorization."

The chairman further observed that in his opinion "there has been an effort all along to discredit the agriculture department's tobacco program" because since its inception in 1934 it has quadrupled prices to growers.

Brothers Meet Overseas

Sgt. Lyle E. Hostetter had a very pleasant surprise on October 29th when his brother, Pfc. John L. Hostetter arrived to spend the day with him at his camp somewhere in England.

At one time they were within twenty miles of each other and neither knew they were so close.

Lyle told about his experiences in North Africa and Sicily. Both have been stationed in England for quite some time. He expects to get a furlough soon which he plans to spend with his brother.

Pfc. John Hostetter is with the ordnance department and Sgt. Lyle with the 61st troop carrier group which was awarded the presidential citation. Other brothers in the armed service are BM2c Cecil Keith Hostetter, somewhere in the south Pacific and Cpl. Kenneth Hostetter, stationed in Panama.

Sgt. Taylor Honored

CAMP BLANDING, Fla., Nov. 29. Sgt. Keith W. Taylor, son of Mrs. Ray Taylor of Plattsmouth, Neb., and a graduate of Plattsmouth High School, has been awarded the Bronze Star for his outstanding work as a battalion intelligence sergeant on Adak Island during the campaign in the Aleutians.

Sgt. Taylor is now senior instructor in Company D, 229th Battalion, of the Infantry Replacement Training Center at Camp Blanding, where he is giving rookies the benefit of his wide experience in intelligence scouting and patrolling work in the Alaskan theater.

In-service nearly four years, Sgt. Taylor trained at Camp Robinson, Ark., with the 35th Division, which is now in France. After further training in Louisiana and in California, he went to the Aleutians with a combat intelligence regiment.

He had amphibious training on Kodiak Island before landing on Adak Aug. 30, 1942. On Adak, he became an authority on the island's terrain and an outstanding leader of intelligence patrols and parties. On his recommendation, outposts were established at several places on the islands, and his work was invaluable to many units in that theater of war.

Twice during severe winter storms, Sgt. Taylor voluntarily led searching parties to locate men lost in the frozen wastes of southern Adak.

The newly decorated sergeant came back to the U. S. last winter as an air cadet but was transferred to the Ground Forces with many other men of the Air Corps.

Sgt. Taylor's wife and eight-year-old daughter are now living with him at Starke, Fla., near Camp Blanding.

Nelson Warns China To Keep Up Production

Plight May Become "Precarious" Unless They Triple Lagging War Production

CHUNGKING, Nov. 29. —(UP)—Donald M. Nelson, President Roosevelt's special representative in China, bluntly warned the Chinese today that their plight will become "very precarious" unless they immediately triple lagging war production.

"We cannot realistically expect the military position of China to improve very much until China wins her battles of production and supply," Nelson said in an address to the people's political council in Chungking.

He likened China's position to that of the United States after Pearl Harbor and called on all free China to cooperate with the newly-organized Chinese war production board in meeting industrial goals.

Upon such cooperation, he said, depends the success of the war plans of the United Nations and the lives of thousands of Chinese, American and British soldiers. If cooperation were withheld, he warned, "it is perfectly plain that the status of China both during and after the war might be seriously damaged."

"The productive effort and morale of the civilian population can make the difference between victory and defeat for fighting troops," he said. "I saw that proved in Russia."

Nelson hailed the formation of the Chinese WPB as the "biggest economic step yet taken by China toward the destruction of our common enemy" and suggested that Chinese industrialists learn from American production experience.

He came to the United States with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Ahl, when a child of two and a half years. The family settled in the state of New York for a time, later coming west and settled on the old homestead east of Louisville.

Mr. Ahl was married to Miss Bertha Walradt, May 7, 1879. To this union were born three daughters and one son, the wife and one daughter, Mrs. Carrie Lohnes, preceded Mr. Ahl in death. He leaves to mourn his passing, a daughter, Mrs. N. F. Hennings, a son, Ernest N. Ahl, both of Louisville, a daughter, Mrs. Tom Pollard, of Ashland, also two grandchildren, twenty-two great grandchildren, a half sister, Mrs. Henry Born of Plattsmouth and a step brother, Charles Ahl of Gothenberg, Nebraska.

Investigation Of Cigarette Shortage Baffling

Check Shows Fewer Cigarettes Released For Use of Civilians and Largest Crop

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. —(UP)—Canvassing the nation's capital today for an official explanation of the cigarette shortage is like reading a mystery thriller without an ending.

The quest yields myriad facts and clues and an occasional gift of a stray cigaret, but no solution.

A check of treasury tax receipts shows that 10,000,000,000 fewer cigarets were released for purchase in this country in 1944 than in 1943, while 40,000,000,000 more smokes were shipped abroad to fighting forces this year than last.

Records of the House Agricultural Committee, now conducting hearings into the subject, reveal testimony that the 1944 tobacco crop is the largest in history and that, in addition, warehouses contain 18 months reserve supply of cigaret tobacco.

Committee Chairman John W. Flannagan, Jr., D., Va., a cigaret smoker himself who knows the bite of an unfamiliar brand, is now studying testimony given his group yesterday to determine whether the inquiry should be pushed on.

"We've proved that the persons who are trying to blame the situation on a shortage of tobacco leaf are dead wrong," Flannagan said. "We have absolved the grower of responsibility I wonder if the com-
