Nebraska District

ELMWOOD

Miss Lottie Lean of Chadron, Nebraska visited her mother and brother here several days last week. Her sister Mrs. Myron Boyd was also here for the week end.

Rev and Mrs. C. H. Lind are spending a week in Burlington, Iowa with their daughter Corinne, who is working as technician in a hospital there. She makes her home with her aunt, Mrs. Lind's sister, whom they are now visiting. Rev. J. Joehens is to fill the pulpit the Sunday the pastor is absent.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gonzales entertained last Sunday. Guests were Mrs. Sadie Baker, his sister from Crete, Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. Manning and Rache, Mrs. Emily Gonzales, and Clark and Charles Gonzales. They report an enjoyable occasion, and the time passed all too swiftly.

Mr. Charles Fowler of Iowa visited his cousin Harry Marshall at the hospital, and spent some time with old friends here. Charles is looking fine and is making good in his work these days.

Mr. Vincent Phillips is glad to be at home on furlough, after some time in a Louisiana camp. He is in the navy department.

Elmwood was an important town in the county the past four days. Large crowds attended the Tournament. Basket ball winners in the finals in the order named were Greenwood, Elmwood, Weeping Water, Avoca.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lannon were among those taking in the Agricultural and Home Economics programs in Lincoln on Thursday.

Mr. Jim Wade is on the sick list this week.

Dr. Howard Liston returned on Wednesday to his intern work at the Presbyterian Hospital in Denver.

The Pierce restaurant was a busy place during the tournament. Several ladies were called in as assistants.

The death of Mrs. Mamie Hudson of Lincoln on last Monday was recorded in the Journal this week. As Mamie Robotham she attended school here years ago. She was a niece of Mr. John Current.

Cwendolyn Gerbeling had scarlet fever in a light form recently. Irene Kunz is another intermediate pupil who now has it, so the Earl Kunz family are quarantined.

Several of the Rebekah Lodge Members attended initiation services at Weeping Water on Friday night. Nehawka and Avoca groups were also represented and a pleasant social evening was enjoyed. They received eleven new members.

Mr. Albert Alford who passed away at Weeping Water, and was buried at Nehawka on Wednesday, had been a resident of Elmwood many years. He first came here with his brother Robert, when they had a hard ware store.

Exactly similar to the mythical school situation. It doesn't make sense—but it illustrates the problem faced by Members of Congress who believe the Kiwanis slogan of "Keep American his America" and also the old rally cry for home missions, "The light that shines farthest shines brightest at home."

—B—
Many citizens propound this question: Surely the Democrats and Republicans in Congress who want to preserve liberty in America constitute a majority—then why don't they unite to stop the left-wing radical moves that are taking us down the European road to collectivism and serfdom for the people?

—B—
Perhaps the best way to answer the foregoing fair question is by a comparison. Suppose in your town the people voted on whether or not education for children was to be continued. A count of the votes indicated a majority favored education. Suppose, then, one of the leading opponents of education was selected as principal for the school, and some others who voted against education were appointed as teachers. Would that situation make sense?

—B—
Several weeks ago the House of Representatives voted to set up a committee to investigate Un-American Activities in this country. The purpose of the committee is indicated by its name—to uncover and expose subversive movements and any and all schemes designed to weaken or destroy our form of government. A similar committee in previous Congresses had been headed by Martin Dies of Texas, not now in Congress.

—B—
The creation of this committee was aggressively opposed by various left-wing pressure groups, such as the Communist Daily Worker, and others. On the other hand, the American Legion and other patriotic groups had long favored this work by Congress. After a sharp debate, Congress voted to set up this committee—and many liberty-loving folks were encouraged.

—B—
But their satisfaction was short-lived. The Administration leaders, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Majority leader McCormack hold the controlling legislative machinery. As a result the committee was made up of 6 Democrats and 3 Republicans—a total of nine members. Then came the fast curve, Edward J. Jart of Jersey City, elected with Boss Hague and Communist support, who voted AGAINST creating the committee, was appointed Chairman by Rayburn and McCormack.

—B—
In Congress, usually the Chairman of a committee has more power than the rest of the committee put together. He holds the controls as effectively as the driver of a bus, and the committee goes where he takes them. But, in addition to Chairman Hart, three additional New Dealers who voted against setting up the committee were made members.

—B—
So the result has become almost

Further Cuts Seen In Gasoline For Civilian Use

Other Petroleum Products May Be Affected by the Demands for the

Military Uses

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. —(U.P.)— Substantial increases in military demands for gasoline, fuel oil and other petroleum products may necessitate further cuts in the civilian ration of these products, the petroleum administration for war warned today. Even without a larger military take, however, PAW said the end of the war in Europe probably will not bring relief for users of fuel oil.

"Already most of such oil diverted to the military is used in Pacific fighting," the PAW said, "and when the war in Europe ends, the forces consuming it in that theater may be shifted to the Pacific."

Petroleum saved by rationing has been "by no means" sufficient to meet military demands and the armed forces have not only taken all saved in this way but also every additional barrel which has been produced, PAW said.

"If the military demands increase further in substantial amount, it may be necessary to reduce the quantities made available for civilian use," PAW said.
