

Major Richard Bong Buried in Cemetery At Poplar, Wisconsin

POPLAR, WIS., (AP) — A grave in a tiny hilltop cemetery Thursday marked the final resting place of Maj. Richard I. Bong, the Wisconsin farm boy who became the nation's top fighting pilot. The 24-year-old major, killed Monday in a crash of an experimental plane, was brought home Wednesday from California to be buried in plain view of the Poplar farm where he had spent his boyhood. A squad of 16 P-47 fighter planes flew in formation overhead and a military guard of honor stood stiffly at attention as Bong's body was carried to the grave. The flag draped over his coffin was folded and presented to Bong's widow. A three-volley salute broke the stiffness of the air, and the mournful notes of taps sounded as the casket was lowered into the ground. Mrs. Bong, the former Marjorie Vattendahl of Superior, accompanied the body by plane from Long Beach, Calif. The giant C-47 transport plane set down at Duluth, Minn., and a military escort bore the body to the Lutheran Concordia church in Superior, where the young couple had repeated their wedding vows only six months earlier. Services were conducted by the Rev. Arvid F. Hoorn, who also said graveside rites for the fallen hero. Tears flowed from the eyes of many of the 1,200 listeners as the pastor said, "the entire nation bows with us to express our homage and respect to Major Bong's memory."

girls are expected to consign a large number of baby beeves and fat barrows as usual. A few fat lambs will also probably be entered. The livestock is to be shown on Monday and sold at public auction on Tuesday. Club leaders and their members are to make all entries at the county extension office on or before August 17.

enough to reach the water-line. Too little will not get clothes dicated inside the machine after clean. Put in only the weight of the clothes are in. Too much wash clothes or number of pieces after may strain the motor and run vided by the directions that came over into the gear and oil case, with the machine, Too heavy a load will not wash well and may over burden the motor. Measuring pats in laundering as it does in cooking. Yet many a housewife who takes the utmost care in measuring ingredients when she cooks used slapdash methods in washing, and is especially careless about dumping in soap.

A 4-H fat stock show and sale will be held in Lincoln, Sept. 3 and 4. Classifications provide only for market animals to be sold for slaughter. There will be no open class exhibits or competition in other divisions of the 4-H department this year due to ODT restrictions. Cass county club boys and

Club Camp
Fifty-six 4-H club members and leaders attended camp at Seward July 30 to August 1. Each day began with a flag raising service, some of the other activities including recreation, handicraft, group singing, tribe meetings, each evening. Evelyn Campbell, Louisville, was one of the seven to receive a handicraft award, and Norma Ford, Nehawka was selected with five others as best camper.

County Fair
Plans are well along for a big Cass county fair this year to be held at Weeping Water August 22-23-24. Liberal cash premiums are offered in all departments. Special emphasis is being placed on livestock and crop exhibits this year. All Cass county rural families should have received a premium list. If you did not get one, request a copy by dropping a post card to the secretary of the Cass county fair, Weeping Water. In addition to the large number of exhibits in all departments, a full program of entertainment has been arranged. Cass county people have put in long hours this summer and are invited to take a rest from their regular duties and attend the fair August 22-23-24.

Remember the Hessian Fly
It cannot be controlled once it has entered a wheat field. Keep it out, says O. S. Bare of the agricultural college, by: 1. Plow under and disk infested stubble early. 2. Destroy all volunteer wheat by disking repeatedly. 3. Sow your wheat on or immediately following the fly-safe date. Not before.

The average fly-safe date for Cass County is around Sept. 25. The Nebraska agricultural college will announce this year's fly-safe dates for the various counties a few days in advance. We will see that local farmers are advised.

Cup and Ruler
A measuring cup and ruler, kept near the washing machine, may help in saving soap, and also in doing an efficient job of washing. A suds about two inches thick has proved best for washing clothes clean. Too much soap is not only wasteful but does not do the best washing. Too little soap does not get clothes clean. A little experience will show just what measure of soap is needed to give a two-inch suds. Try a half cup of soap first, and then add until exactly the right measure is found. It is easier to add soap than to try to remove an excess. Just how much is needed depends on the size of the machine, the water, and the kind of soap used—whether flakes, chips powder or jelly. Measuring the water and the load of clothes is also important. Fill the tub with just water
