New Orleans Pastor Is Friend to Seamen

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A Norwegian seamen's church is maintained in New Orleans and its pastor serves as banker, interpreter, mailman and agent for Scandinavian sailors.

The Rev. Johan Iversen came here nine years ago and he can count on the fingers of one hand the Norwegian vessels he has not visited while they were in port here. It's his daily task to see the men aboard the ships, eat with them and talk with them.

He once went aboard a vessel and baptized a sailor's infant daughter when the seaman was not allowed to come ashore.

In the drawing room of the church are a stuffed monkey, a stuffed turtle, a whale's tooth, a wing tip from a Kamikaze plane and a German rifle.

Fugitives Hunted After Escaping Iowa Reformatory

ELDORA, IA., (AP)—State highway patrol officers, police and farmers armed with guns and corn knives combed the countryside Thursday for 96 fugitives still at large after a mass escape from the Iowa training school for boys.

Officials of the institution said that the youths escaped after a riot in the dining room of the main building during the noon meal Wednesday after overturning tables, smashing crockery and breaking window screens with stools.

State Highway Patrol Sergeant R. J. Fisher said 179 of the 565 inmates, ranging in age from 12 to 18, participated in the break. Deputy Sheriff Fred Wehrman placed the number at approximately 150, however. School officials refused to estimate the number.

Fisher said all but 96 of the boys had been taken into custody or had given themselves up by midnight Wednesday night. A bed check at the training school disclosed that 113 of the inmates had not been returned to the institution.

Darrell T. Brown, assistant superintendent of the school, admitted there had been a "spirit of unrest" among the inmates for some time and said the outbreak probably had been precipitated by the death Wednesday of Ronald Miller, 17.

An autopsy was scheduled for Thursday in the death of Miller, who authorities of the school said died of "heat prostration." Brown, who described the youth as "very stubborn," said Miller had collapsed in 90-degree heat "on the coal pile" where he had been sent as a disciplinary measure.

Hardin County Coroner E. H. Biersborn ordered the autopsy after viewing the youth's body, which he said showed bruises on the back and arms and indicated that he might have been beaten.

Miller, who had been destined for overseas service in the army until it was discovered he was underage, was sent to the school last June 21 at the request of his parents, Brown said.

Sheriff Wehrman said he had been called at about 11:45 a. m. Wednesday after school officials were tipped off about the proposed break by one of the inmates.

Wehrman said he entered the dining room just as the last of the escapees tumbled out of the windows, and heard one of them yell, "I'm not going to stay here and get killed!"

A bounty of $10 was offered for the capture of each of the escapees. Farmers for miles around joined the hunt.

W. F. English, vice president of Trans-Canada air lines, recently reported that Canadian air-mile costs had increased only 4 per cent since 1938, while similar costs of U. S. airlines had risen 48 per cent.

Irrigation Projects Planned by Indians

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prodigious schemes involving the expenditure of vast sums of money designed to cover the postwar development of irrigation in the Indian states have been completed. It is revealed here in an announcement made by the chamber of princes.

These schemes primarily aim at bringing additional undeveloped land within the orbit of irrigation, the announcement said. Hyderabad state plans to spend Rs. 650,000,000 (some $215,000,000) on the irrigation of 3,000,000 acres of new land. Jumagadh has set aside Rs. 1,750,000 ($580,000) to harness the two state rivers, while Mysore has 28 irrigation schemes covering a five-year period which will cost Rs. 20,000,000 ($5,000,000). In Jaipur, 162,250 acres of land will be irrigated at a cost of Rs. 12,600,000 and help develop 1,205,600 acres of new land.

More than 550 worn-out light tanks, several hundred General herman medium tanks and more than 900 half-track personnel carriers have been rebuilt at three army ordnance plants in eastern Pennsylvania.
