

Swanky Town Loves Its Beer

GLEN COVE, N. Y. (U.P.)—Stumbling over Butch is getting to be a habit in this wealthy Long Island community.

Commuters stumble over him at the station. Housewives detour around his 250 pounds of shaggy St. Bernard on the sidewalk. Theater goers find him parked in the lobby. He goes to church.

But for all their stumbling, Glen Cove's residents love Butch—the town bum.

He hums his meals from lunch wagons and butcher shops. He's never driven from public gatherings. Once in a while he rides the trains. All for free.

"He has been our town character for some years now," Mayor Arthur Aikenhead said.

Loved by Everybody

"He is very gentle and is loved by everybody. He visits the theater, the schools and all the churches. He carts the smaller children around on his back. Anyway you look at it, he is a most unusual dog."

Butch, whose six-foot frame is big enough to block an ordinary sidewalk, has a home, but seldom bothers to stay there. He is the property of J. Norris Miller, owner of an estate and a relative of former Gov. Nathan L. Miller.

Eric Krable, editor of the Glen Cove Echo, sometimes gives Butch more space in his column than he does the doings of the scions of Long Island's first families.

"Sometimes when Butch gets tired of the town he goes down to Plans Approved For Classroom Building at N. U.

LINCOLN—Plans for a new University of Nebraska general classroom building to cost $550,000 have been approved and construction may start this summer.

L. F. Seaton, operating superintendent announced Monday.

The new building will be a replica of Andrews Hall, with the addition of a small "L." It will be three stories high, 238 feet long and 66 feet wide, with an "L" with dimensions of 98 feet long and 54 feet wide. It will conform in style to other buildings on the campus and is to be constructed of red brick with white stone trim.

"The university hoped originally to construct a larger building to house the Social Science Hall, but the increased cost of materials makes this prohibitive," Seaton said.

The classroom building will be constructed on the tennis court site just south of Bessey Hall with the "L" facing Twelfth street opposite the Chemistry building. It will contain 31 classrooms and 40 faculty offices, including the office of the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Space allotments in the new building are still tentative, according to Mr. Seaton, but present plans call for housing the School of Journalism, and the departments of mathematics, romance languages, history, sociology, political science and philosophy.

Removal of the School of Journalism and the Romance Language department from the University Hall, first building constructed on the campus, may leave that building vacant depending on enrollment, Seaton said, in which case it will be torn down. He said the building was in a bad state of deterioration.

The three buildings will cost about $325,000 and are to be financed through the University of Nebraska Dormitory corporation.

by the latest information of crops, livestock, pastures, and new farm practices.

Each year, he continues, new developments that benefit farming are discovered such as DDT insecticide, 2,4-D weed killer, as well as new varieties of corn, oats, wheat and other crops.

Farmers interested in participating in the Pasture-Forage-Livestock program more familiarly known as P-F-L, may do so by contacting their nearest county agricultural agent.

tion will be on a basis of county against county within the state.

Other Livestock Conservation Market Days will be held in Sioux City, March 8 tomorrow, and at North Platte, March 27, and Alliance, March 28.

Cost of clearing and plowing land in the Star Valley in Lincoln County, Wyo., during a week removal project in 1938 amounted to $20.50 an acre.

Church Burns Mortgage

ENID, Okla. (U.P.)—Members of the First Presbyterian Church of Enid have burned the mortgage on the $300,000 building celebrating the clearing of all indebtedness against the church.

Nylons for House Tip

TIFFIN O. (U.P.)—A househunter in Tiffin balanced one shortage against another, offering three pairs of nylon hose to anyone who would help him find a furnished apartment.

Stocks Up on Teeth

AMARILLO, Tex. (U.P.)—This burglar must have been planning to attend a series of banquets.

Among loot taken from a dentist's office were eight sets of false teeth.

the depot and boards a train and rides down to Oyster Bay," Krabel said.

Butch Rides Free

"Of course, he hasn't any ticket or anything, but the trainmen know him and he's never out of. When he's ready he hops another train and comes back."

Townsperson remember what was perhaps Butch's most famous exploit two years ago.

Early one morning someone heard a commotion in the depot and told police they heard robbers inside.

Police surrounded the depot. They tried to open the door, but it slammed back at them. One got a tommy gun and covered the door while the others prepared to rush it.

"Put your hands up and come out or we'll shoot." They ordered. They rushed the door.

Out came Butch. He had been locked in by accident.

For Octogenarians Only

MT. STERLING, Ky. (U.P.)—Mt. Sterling boasts the only Octogenarian Club in the United States. The group held its 10th annual meeting recently with 12 members present. The club was organized in 1935 with 27 members. It now has 26 members, ranging in age from 80 to 93 years.

Fifty years of existence will be marked by the port of New Orleans in July.

London Plans for Garages Under Her West End Squares

LONDON (U.P.)—Plans are being made to construct parking garages underneath the famous squares in the West End of London.

The proposals, which have been discussed in the House of Lords, are designed to relieve traffic congestion in London. The famous squares, including Trafalgar and Piccadilly, would have the underground storage places excavated and covered over so that the squares would retain their old characteristics in much the same manner as was done with Union Square in San Francisco.

A new push-button garage is under consideration for use in the auto parks. The invention involves the use of moving floors and the car is brought to the owner when he dials the number of his parking space. The system would permit storage of 195 cars in the space normally required for 152 automobiles.

Notes on Nebraska Farming

1946 Nebraska Pasture-Forage-Livestock Program Announced

Some years ago something new in programs to encourage the growing of more grass and legumes and livestock was started in Nebraska. That became known by the name Pasture-Forage-Livestock, and as such gained nationwide publicity. Through the year the development of the program: to feed the grain and legumes produced on the farm and market the livestock was watched with interest by leaders in national agriculture.

The 1946 program is the twelfth year in which Pasture-Forage-Livestock has been sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Nebraska.

Keith Newton, county agricultural agent in Steward county, says through the years an effort has been made to give the farmers of Nebraska and of his own county the latest information of crops, livestock, pastures, and new farm practices.

Have Fun FLYING KITES

But be careful

Here's How to MAKE a Kite Easily:

Here's How to FLY a Kite Safely:

Take 3 sticks about 3/4" wide and not over 1/2" thick—two about 30" long and one about 20" long.

Cross the two long sticks so that the top points are about 8" apart and the bottom points are about 15" apart. Lay the short stick across with center at intersection of long sticks. The firmly with string at intersection.

Notch each point of the sticks about a quarter inch down from the end and tie a strong string from point to point around outside of frame drawing string tight between all points and tie firmly to each point.

Cut tough, light paper to shape of frame about 1/2" larger than string outline—place kite frame on paper and glue edges of paper over string outline—keeping paper tight.

When glue has dried, turn kite over and tie a string loosely from each end of crossed sticks on paper side of kite. Fasten kite string firmly to intersecting strings at point where the three strings cross.

Tie a loop of string to two bottom points and fasten tail (made by tying strips of cloth together) to center of string loop. Tail should be about fifteen to twenty feet long—depending on flying conditions. If kite dips and dives, tail is too short—kite sticks and will not rise tail is too long.

The directions at the left will help you to make a good kite. Whether you make your own or buy one at the store, have fun but be careful. Observe these safety rules:

- 1 Keep kites away from electric wires.
- 2 Avoid using metallic string or wire for kite string.
- 3 Do not fly kites in damp weather.
- 4 Don't run across streets or roads.
- 5 If your kite becomes entangled with electric wires or trees near wires, do not attempt to get it down yourself. NO KITE IS WORTH THE RISK OF INJURY.

And we repeat:

AVOID FLYING KITES NEAR ELECTRIC WIRES
