SUNDAY SCHOOL PRESENTS CHILDREN'S DAY PROGRAM

A Children's day observance was held at the St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday morning during the regular church service. Older members of the Sunday school presented a pageant centered around the song, "Jesus Loves Me."

Mynard Farm Bureau Unit Meets Thursday Evening

The regular meeting of the Mynard Farm Bureau unit was held Thursday evening in the community hall. Meetings will continue through the summer, the next to be held July 11.

Richard Cole gave a report of the meeting on roads held at Lincoln recently stating that nearly everything we do is tied up to roads—schools, churches, meetings, business and social. Speakers were men who have made a business of making roads. Surfacing of rural routes was stressed as they are farm to market roads and serve a large part of the people.

Richard also reported on the annual 4-H club week at Lincoln. Nearly 300 boys and girls attended. In the public speaking contest, the winning boy and girl each received a $250 scholarship from radio station KFAB. Dr. Keim spoke and showed pictures on "Youth in Europe and America." The group visited the state capital, Love Memorial library, agricultural campus and the first Plymouth church. They also visited the city fire department. On the last day the group boarded a special train to Omaha and there toured the packing plants, cold storage plants, alcohol plant, Joselyn memorial, and the woman of the World building. During the week they were entertained at several banquets and heard many speakers.

Golden Rod Study Club Meets Thursday
The Golden Rod Study club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Myron Wilg with Mrs. Henry Lind and Mrs. Edward Weinlein as assistant hostesses. The business meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Helen Meisinger. Mrs. Lee Huebert led the group in singing with Arroyo Cole as the accompanist. Mrs. Kath Wines arranged the program, which consisted of two piano solos by Eloise Cole and a book review of "The Gauntlet" by James Street, which was given by Mrs. Howard Wiles. Mrs. Guy Wiles showed articles, including tablecloths and pottery, brought from India by her son, Stephen. A social hour followed and refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Spend Day in Missouri

Mr. and Mrs. Lester King visited Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Grady, of Lino, Mo. Miss Margaret Barnett of Rix Mills, Ohio, was also a guest at the Grady home. She was attending a church conference at Tarkio, Mo. during the week-end.

Attend Wedding

A number of Plattsmouth people journeyed to Omaha Saturday evening to attend the wedding of Elva Loraine Sharp and Ernest Miles Harper at the Northside Christian church. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sharp, former residents of Plattsmouth. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harper of Omaha. He served in the Pacific as a major in the air corps for three years.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. The bride is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Niel of Plattsmouth.

Return From West Point

Mr. and Mrs. Seal Davis and daughter, Elizabeth, returned Saturday from West Point, N. Y., where they attended the commencement exercises of the military academy. Second Lt. Corbin Davis of the regular army was graduated there this spring and returned home with them. After about a month's leave, he will report at Fort Benning, Ga. for further training.

Leaves for Wyoming

R. C. Jahrig left Sunday for New Castle, Wyo., where he will spend a few days. He was accompanied by his niece, Miss Julia Bock, of New Castle, who has been visiting here with relatives during the past two weeks.

Now it's the "Telegenic Girl of 1946"—and Evelyn Keyes, comely Columbia actress, is it. Electronics engineers and the 400 television "lookers" of southern California recently gave her the title, and she expects to star in television features in color—including her red hair, blue eyes and peaches-and-cream complexion.

Florida Bids for Air Visitors
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (U.P.)—Florida, long a center for the land travel trade, now is making a bid for air tourists, repainting and modernizing markers encouraging pilots to drop down for a visit.
Before the war, the state led the nation in air markings to guide planes to their destination, but some 1,700 fell casualty to the outbreak of hostilities and were painted out to prevent enemy use. The renovation job will cost about $85,000, and since their disrepair was brought on by war, state officials are seeking federal aid in the project.
The actual repainting and re-marking must be undertaken by individual communities, but the state is recommending that wise cities will look to the air for much of their tourist trade in the future.
At the same time, Florida is not neglecting its land travelers. Long-ignored highway markers are being brought up to date, and the state road department is establishing welcome-stations to give tourists information about Florida resorts, along with a free drink of its famous citrus juices.
The outmoded string signs with anywhere from 7 to 10 towns on a marker are being replaced with simplified short directions, a maximum of three designations per sign. Most of them will have only two, the next community and the large city at the end of the line.
The signs will be more prominent, letters enlarged to from five to seven inches, with the big "stop" and caution markers written in 24-38-inch print. Arrows will point directions instead of the old "R" for right and "L" for left designation.
State highways are being re-numbered and will be printed in letters equal in height to U. S. government designations. In a simple, uniform system, all roads leading from north to south will bear odd numbers, and those from east to west even numbers.
And, always mindful of the advertising advantages of roadside markers, each road numbering sign will reproduce the familiar outline of the map of Florida.
