Cascades

Parents here are alarmed by the mounting number of child ailments cropping up. Mumps, pneumonia and chicken pox are plaguing many households. The situation has not reached the stage of a plague but it's serious enough to be given consideration.

We believe the unseasonal fall weather has had a lot to do with sicknesses. The great variance in temperatures has without doubt led to many kiddies becoming bedfast. But this Thursday's weather offers hope. Skies promise colder mercury readings and perhaps snow. Colder weather should nip the epidemics.

Over-the-coffee talk Thursday centered on a deputy selection. It was not binned. It can not be ignored, however, as a Cass county interest.

Seen and reported: A bird dog and a beautiful specimen, standing erect with his paws against the bank's doors.

There was a blackout near Wintersteen school Wednesday night for several hours when a transformer went awry. Christmas, Halloween and birthday candles were pressed into service for lighting purposes by the pioneer-minded. Some kerosene lamps also were taken out of attics and used.

The writer of this piece has taken an awful razzing for the mention of a Sunday dinner some time ago. It was in conjunction with explanatory notes about late papers.

Moscow Dresses Up To Celebrate Red Revolution

MOSCOW. (UP)—The Russian capital was in festive mood Thursday for the parade of military forces and factory workers through red square celebrating the 29th anniversary of the Soviet revolution.

Communist party and government leaders will review the parade. Units of workers representing individual plants and organizations will share the march with Soviet Army and Navy units. A three-day celebration through out the Soviet Union began last night with street dancing and theatrical performances.

Great Voice For Vandenberg At Peace Talks

NEW YORK. (UP)—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., will resume his place at the side of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in the big four council of foreign ministers, when that group meets again Thursday, with even greater influence than he has wielded since the first of this year.

Ever since January, when Vandenberg demanded and obtained a greater voice in formulation as well as execution of a bi-partisan American foreign policy, the senator from Michigan has been a major influence on Byrnes.

Now that Vandenberg is almost certain to be the new chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which must ratify any at their meeting here, his voice treaties the big four agree upon will be even more influential in the preparation of the peace treaties.

Vandenberg also is being talked about as the new president pro tem of the Senate — the office usually held by a vice president when the United States has one.

The big four Foreign ministers are in recess until Friday afternoon when they will plunge into the much-argued dispute about Trieste—with the East trying to place that strategic trouble area within the Soviet sphere of influence, and the west struggling just as hard to keep it out. Foreign ministers long since abandoned the nice sounding principle of ethnic frontiers as a basis for settlement of the area at the head of the Adriatic.

Resignation Rumors Are Given Setback

Labor Suffers Heavy Setbacks From Election

NEW YORK. (UP)—An unofficial survey showed Thursday that organized labor suffered heavy reverses in Tuesday's election and that the strong democratic pro-labor bloc in the House lost many of its stalwarts in the Republican landslide.

Voters across the country rejected a majority of the candidates supported by the CIO's political action committee and President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers appeared to have failed in his reported behind the scenes attempt to bring about the defeat of Senator Harley M. Kilgore, D., West Virginia, a member of the Senate pro-labor bloc.

But it was on labor's friends in the House that the heaviest blows fell. Among the victims of the Republican landslide were H. Delacy of Washington, Frank E. Hook of Michigan, Michael J. Bradley of Pennsylvania, Andrew J. Biemiller of Wisconsin, John V. Johnson of Washington, and Jerry Coffee of Washington, Charles S. Voorhis of California.

Among the pro laborites who were reelected were Helen Gahagan Douglas, D., California, Adolph H. Sabath, D., Illinois, John D. Dingell, D., Michigan and Mary T. Norton, D., New Jersey.

Some quarters believed the net power.

Prices Rased On Articles Of Men's Clothing

WASHINGTON. (UP)—The O.P. Thursday authorized ceiling price increases ranging from three to fifteen per cent on certain articles of children's and men's clothing.

It granted a 10 to 15 per cent increase on some children's and infant cotton wash suits, overalls, jumperalls, and woven cotton clothing.

An increase of three to four per cent was authorized in the price of durable low-cost men's tailored suits, overcoats and jackets to cover a recent 10 per cent increase in the cost of wool material.

OPA also granted a 25 per cent increase for men's individually packaged handkerchiefs.

Yesterday, the agency authorized, effective Friday, a price boost of from $4 to $5.50 a ton on sulphite and northern sulphate wood pulp. This will mean added cost of $10,500,000 a year to U. S. mills.

Demo Chairman Asks Cooperation

WASHINGTON. (UP)—Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan has enjoined Republicans and Democrats to work together for "the strength and well-being of the nation."

Hannegan conceded Republican control of the new Congress late Thursday extending "heartly congratulations" to all members-elect. He issued his statement after talking by telephone with President Truman and Republican National Chairman Carroll Reece.

He said the Republicans face "a great responsibility."

Memphis, Tenn. (UP)—There is a Memphis man with a name for his trade. He's Sam Needleman—a tailor.

WASHINGTON. (UP)—Authoritative Democratic quarters said Thursday President Truman has absolutely no intention of resigning. They said suggestions that he do so were "utterly fantastic."

The suggestion that he resign after naming a Republican secretary of state, who would then succeed him originated with Senator William J. Fulbright, D., Ark. Fulbright's suggestion was made on the basis of the Republican landslide in Tuesday's election.

Most democratic leaders here expressed amazement at the proposal.

This much was known definitely: Mr. Truman has no idea of quitting and the recommended resignation has never been considered seriously.

Mr. Truman plans to spend the next two years in the White House following a simple formula—acting in a way he considers good for the country.

The president apparently has become reconciled to the results of the election and is ready to carry on. His attitude was described by friends thusly:

"We are going to do from day to day what is best for the welfare of the country."

Democratic sources said that Mr. Truman did not intend to change the American constitutional system by executive fiat. They said he believes his resignation would involve such a change.

Neither can the president conceive of how the republicans could select a successor without an election.

Mr. Truman, it was said, has no idea of forming a coalition government by bringing republicans into top level positions. A report that he might do so was an apparent by product of the Fulbright proposal. As far as can be determined the proposal of a coalition government has not even been discussed at the White House.

The president's friends were emphatic in their assertions that Mr. Truman is not the kind of a man who would, as they put it, run out on the job.

WASHINGTON. (UP)—President Truman, still silent on his party's political disaster and on proposals that he resign, planned Thursday to spend the next two years following a simple formula action for the good of the country.

Facing 24 troublesome months of conflict with a Republican Congress, Mr. Truman apparently had become reconciled to the results of Tuesday's election and was ready to carry on. His attitude was described by friends as this:

"We are going to do from day to day what is best for the welfare of the country."

Mr. Truman was represented as seeing one silver lining in the stormy weather ahead. No longer must he pull his punches when Congress bucks his wishes. As one of his friends said, he can now "go to town on his vetoes."

The White House, from the President on down, was studiously silent.

Lujack Ready To Start Army Game

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Johnny Lujack, star Notre Dame quarterback, and a key man in the Irish hopes for a victory over Army Saturday at New York, will be in condition to start against the cadets, it was indicated Thursday by team physician Dr. Joseph Cation.

Lujack received a sprained right ankle in practice Wednesday when he collided with Frank Kosikowski 205-lb. end during a defensive drill.

Hog Theft Suspect Quizzed On Robbery

An alleged six-time loser who was being questioned Thursday afternoon about a bank robbery was one of two suspects being held by Sheriff Joe Mrasek in connection with a Cass county hog theft.

In custody at county jail were Louis Am, 48, who was said by police to have a penitentiary record, and Paul James, 38. Both live near Murray.

The men pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing Thursday and waived to district court.

Several days ago, sheriff's officers were called to the Victor Turner farm near Nehawka where a hog had been stolen. According to visible evidence, the thieves had dragged the hog, a Hampshire about 400 feet and stuck it near a fence. Some tire tracks were found near the fence and it was deduced that the hog killers had used a truck.

Driving to Omaha on another mission, Dep. Sheriff Emery Doady saw tires on a pickup truck that resembled the imprints at the theft scene. His alertness later led to the apprehension of the suspects.

Armed with a license number and description of the suspected vehicle, Sheriff Mrasek watched for it and eventually made the arrests near Will Seybolt's gas station.

The sheriff said that the men admitted illegal butchering of the animal and selling two hams from (Turn to Page 4, Number 2)

Super Bomber Carries Atom Bomb Anyplace

WASHINGTON. (UP)—The Army Air Forces lifted the curtain Thursday on its new super bomber, the giant B-36, which it said can carry an atomic bomb to any inhabited region in the world and return home without refueling.

The big plane, now in production at the Convair company's Ft. Worth, Texas plant, will replace the B-29 super fortress as the army's top bomber.

The B-36 is 163-ft. long, and 47-ft. high, with a wing span of 230 ft. Maximum speed is 300 miles per hour.

Its wing tanks hold 21,000 gallons of gasoline and 1,200 gallons of oil, or more than the average motorist uses in twenty years. The plane can carry 10,000 lbs. of bombs a distance of 10,000 miles. At reduced range it can carry 72,000 pounds—more than three times as many as the B-29 carries at a comparable distance. It has four engines which develop 18,000 H. P.

The raise would boost the beginning annual salary of Omaha teachers from $1,530 to $2,070.

The request was contained in a letter to Dr. Harry Burke, superintendent of Omaha schools.
