HOME...

Is Where Your Heart Is ...

"Home is where your heart is" has been a saying close to the hearts of all for many, many years. You know what it means.

Your home, your friends, your children, go to make up that home, in one sense. The community is another part of it--the schools, the churches, the activities of the community, and the commercial institutions.

The respect you have for each of these, and its sum total, determines the feelings you have for your home.

The merchants and businessmen of the town are very much a part of this home of yours--this community. They take part in all of the activities of the community. They employ a large percentage of the people who make up this community, they pay a large share of the taxes which go to provide roads, schools, public buildings and improvements for the community. County figures show that they pay from one-half to two-thirds of the taxes which go to support the schools, roads and other public needs.

When you do your shopping in the "big city" the merchant here does not benefit from the purchase, and you lose indirectly because no taxes are paid on those purchases.

You also lose much time, since it is necessary to spend much more time to travel to the "big city" stores, and oftentimes you find the price lower--always comparable.

The clerks and the merchants here know you and you know them. They are your friends and part of your home community. You get a friendly, personal service when you trade in Plattsmouth.

Show where your heart is--trade in Plattsmouth where your home is, where your friends live, where the merchants are always anxious to serve you.
