(Turn to Page 4, Number 1) Include the building of earth dams at Garrison, between N. Dak., and Montana; at Oahe, N. Dak., and at Ft. Randall, S. Dak.

The dams are to be built on the same principle as the Ft. Peck dam. When they are completed the danger of floods will be virtually eliminated.

Pollock attended the 28th annual convention of the Mississippi Valley River association held Jan. 21 at the Statler hotel in St. Louis. The number of prominent speakers there and the large size of the meetings were evidence of the great interest in the construction of the dams and the efforts to prevent floods, according to Pollock.

Open House Saturday At Offutt Field on Army Week Program

It will be open house at Offutt field, Ft. Crook, next Saturday from noon to 6 p. m.

A program of entertainment including demonstrations of airplanes and equipment, aerial flights, movies, and allied subjects appropriate to the occasion, has been planned for the open house as part of the army week. Lt. John W. Berge, Jr., public relations officer said.

Army week is celebrated throughout the country from April 6 to 12.

The open house will be of special interest to Plattsmouth people this year, since many of the personnel at Offutt field live here.

Ranking Seniors Are Given Examinations

From an eligibility list of 17 students 11 wrote the regents scholarship examinations Friday at the high school. These tests are given by the regents of the University of Nebraska to all the high schools in the state. Only the upper one-quarter of the senior class is allowed to write on the questions.

About 250 scholarships are awarded to graduates in the state. The scholarship takes care of the tuition and certain fees for the first year only. The student must pay matriculation fees, explained Miles Elie, high school principal.

Those writing the examinations Friday were Jean Lloyd, Janet Tietz, Marilou Warner, Marilyn Beckman, Ruth Ann Sporer, Joan Gradoville, Jackie Krejcl, Emerson Wiles, Warren Kneer, Mildred Ann Meisinger and Tom Beins.

Miss Jessie Whalen, class sponsor, conducted the examination.

LOUISVILLE - Election returns here showed a light vote cast, with the following candidates being named to office: Dave Sjogren was re-elected on the village board of trustees and A. H. Funke succeeds P. K. Wright who was not a candidate.

Mrs. Ernest Engelmeier and C. S. Hirsch were named to the board of education of District 32 to take the places of P. L. Wright and F. H. Brunson, whose terms expired this year.

ELMWOOD - Two donations have been made to the memory shelf at the library. Barbara Miller, in memory of Mr. Christensen gave "Singing Sands" by Grace Moon; Mrs. Bess Street Aldrich sent the book "Historical Houses of Early America" by Elsie Lathrop. The latter book was given in memory of Mrs. Aldrich's sister, Mrs. John P. Cobb.

ELMWOOD - An old landmark on the Earl Klnz farm northeast of town was removed last week when a large oak believed to have been planted in 1800 was cut down.

WEEPING WATER - Work has begun on the erection of the new theatre building here. The excavating is finished and work of laying the foundation has started. The owners hope to have the building and equipment ready by late summer.

NEHAWKA - George and Louis Poulos who have been operating a garage in Union since their discharge from the service, have disposed of their building to Charles Atteberry of that place and have discontinued business. Their future plans are indefinite.
