Reunion of Class of 1924 Is Success

Up-to-the-minute news and reminiscences of the old days marked the get-together of the alumni group gathered at the Methodist Church last Thursday evening when the members of the graduating class of 1924 held their second reunion since leaving school days behind them.

The first reunion was held several years ago at the Henry Leacock home in Lincoln.

Nearly half the number of graduates were present in a hastily planned gathering meeting especially to include one of their number, Miss Alice Louise Westcott, home for a vacation visit from her work in Baltimore, Md.

The class roll included 37 members. Miss Westcott was president of the class in her senior year.

One of the features of the evening was the making and reproducing of recorded messages of members present to those unable to be there.

Henry Leacock of Lincoln used his recorder to transcribe the reading of the original class prophecy which Mrs. Alice Plak Sharpnack read to the group.

Her original comments made during the reading of the prophecy added to the hilarity and interest as the record was played back to the group.

Mrs. Betty Gerbeling was elected president of the group during a short business meeting. Plans were discussed for a future reunion.

Alumni members and their families had brought refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cake. Class members included Mrs. Dorothy Sattler Tiekotter, Mrs. Edith Yelick Leacock, Mrs. Freda Klunger Stibal, Mrs. Ailyce Prak Sharpnack, Mrs. Beatrice Herring Long, Mrs. Sarah Baird Cecil, Miss Alice Louise Westcott, Mrs. Mabel Howard Meisinger, Mrs. Louise Parriott Tritsch, Mrs. Betty Sitzman Gerbeling, Bernard Meisinger, Herman Tiekotter, George Schmidtman, George Ebersole and Henry Leacock.

Also present were Mrs. George Schmidtman, Mrs. George Ebersole, Herman Meisinger, Elmer Tritsch and Harley Cecil. Several children of alumni members were with their parents.

Mrs. Alma Heldman, a house guest of her sister, Mrs. Sanford Short and Mr. Short, Tuesday received a long distance call from her two daughters in California.

Mrs. Lois Greene and Mrs. Deloris Stromme called their mother from Oakland. Mrs. Heldman's condition is somewhat improved after a recent illness.
