Meisinger, Janelle and Betty Kay of Plattsmouth, Jake Tritsch, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Meisinger, Donald Meisinger and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Meisinger and Sandra Ann of Louisville, Nebr.

There Will Be A Corn Yield Contest

Even though corn is going to be a very short crop in Nebraska this year, plans are being made to hold another corn yield contest this fall says D. L. Gross, extension agronomist.

A field to be entered in the contest must be at least 10 acres in size and regular in shape. This does not exclude contoured fields.

A contestant may enter one field of yellow corn and one field of white corn, but not more than one each.

Local contest committees of three persons will determine the yield and general quality of corn in the contest fields some time between October 15 and November 15. This will determine county winners and representatives in regional contests.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK CAVER United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (AP)—Howard Lindsay, who has been acting and writing for the public for about 30 years, will undertake his first sustained radio effort next month when he becomes master of ceremonies of "The Ford Theater."

This new program, which will be heard from 5 to 6 p. m. e. s. t. over the NBC network on Sundays, beginning Oct. 5, should be just right for him as it is an hour-long dramatization of famous plays, books and movie scripts, as well as an occasional original radio drama.

One of the plays that will not be used this season is Lindsay's own "Life With Father," the long-run record-holder, which is barred from radio until two years after the August release of the movie Warner Brothers made from the play. A lot of people are anxious to get their hands on it for radio serialization purposes, but it can't be used before August, 1949.

Between his radio chores, Lindsay will be sandwiching in writing sessions with his collaborator, Russell Crouse, to complete their "Father" sequel, "Life With Mother." When "State of the Union" closes Sept. 13, Broadway will be without a Lindsay-Crouse play for the first time since Nov. 8, 1939, when "Father" opened. During that time they also were represented occasionally as successful producers of the works of other writers.

Another Broadway showman to hit the air waves is Billy Rose. The Mutual network will feature him in a five-minute commentary at 8:55 p. m. e. s. t. Mondays through Fridays, beginning Oct. 13.

The producer-columnist-night club operator-theater owner-song writer-art collector will feature anecdotes about unusual events and people he has run across in his spectacular career. Sponsored? Of course—right across the board. No one ever accused Billy of small-time operation.

The invisible giant white rabbit Harvey of the Mary Coyle Chase play of the same name has been honored with installation as official mascot of Don E. Brown Post No. 503, Department of California, American Legion. His image is to be worn by the post members on all official occasions.

The Theater Guild is losing no time about getting on with the 1947-48 theatrical season. The musical show "Allegro" has been in rehearsal since early August and the organization's second production went into rehearsal last week. This one is a drama by Jan de Hartog, "This Time Tomorrow," in which Sam Jaffe has a leading role. Providence and Boston will see it before New York.

Movie cameras and stars will infest the U. S. Military Academy at West Point Sept. 3-15 when Paramount takes both outdoor and indoor shots for "The Long Grey Line." Alan Ladd will be the male star who will be photographed in cadet grey.

In 1946 a total of 21,611 deer were killed in Maine, but an estimated 150,000 still were roaming the woodlands—more than when the first white man came to the state.
