 Sixth Street and Second Avenue
 Sunday services at 11 a. m.
 "Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 19, 1947.
 The Golden Text is: "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God" (I Cor. 1:18). Other Bible citations include: "All the ends of the world shall remember and turn unto the Lord; and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before thee" (Psalms 22:27).
 The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, "It is possible, yea, it is the duty and privilege of every child, man and woman, to follow in some degree the example of the Master by the demonstration of Truth and Life, of health and holiness" (p. 37).

The Creative Power of Faith

Scripture: Hebrews 11:1-8, 39-40; 12:1-2

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

THERE could be no better definition of faith than that given by the author of the Book of Hebrews. It is "the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

As such, it is the essence and foundation of all religion; but it is more than that. It underlies, and is the motive power of, all creative activity, if not of all life. The poet, the artist, sees his accomplished work first of all in vision, but without faith the idea, the vision, would never be accomplished. He sees the substance by faith, and if the power to create is there he makes it real for others. So, also, in life; if we had no faith in a tomorrow, there would be little meaning or incentive in life today.

It is here that religious faith finds its true significance and meaning. It is the anchorage for souls, when everything seems to be going wrong. It is in a very real sense "the evidence of things not seen," for it links life with unseen spiritual facts and sources that only faith can know.

The Hebrews author expounds the meaning of this sort of faith by its great examples; and these in their very nature are impressive and instructive. They have to do with matters that were difficult and doubtful—journeying into a new, far-off, and unknown land; trusting promises that were as yet far from fulfillment; facing suffering, persecution, and death—all that men, in one way or another, have faced, and will face even in an atomic age. And his story is of those who, through faith, were builders and conquerors.

It is, or ought to be, an inspiring story for today. What the world needs above all else is the faith to overcome disaster, and the faith to go on in spite of peril and difficulty. It must be more than the faith which is the power to create, or the faith of the explorer and scientist, in seeking discovery and knowledge. These, in themselves, have only enlarged and increased man's problems and dangers. They must be subject to a higher faith if discovery and knowledge are to bring to humanity life-saving and life-giving power, rather than destruction.

This is the place of religion, and the world's need of it. The ancient writer said that without faith it is impossible to please God; and it is God's provision for man's life that, without faith, he cannot work out his own salvation.
