

U. S. All Right Tahiti Paradise

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Tahiti is still the paradise it always has been, and Chief Charlie Mauu of the Pacific island can't see why anyone would want to live in the United States.

The six-foot, two-inch islander said in halting English. Then he gave his philosophy for happiness. "Plant more, I tell my people, love more, and have more fun." Charlie says it works. "Swimming and outrigger canoeing and fishing. There is plenty for everybody," he said happily. Charlie is a direct descendant of the Polynesians who ruled

Cats Are Coming Over There

Look out, European rats—the AEF (American Expeditionary Forces) is coming! Flash, poking his head from his crate is one of the AEF men in purr-son. Sponsors of the movement, the American Feline Society, hopes to send a million cats to kill off Europe's rats, but government experts say "few cats have nerve enough to attack a rat."

Blind Leads the Blind and Also Those With Sight

BOSTON (AP)—The blind not only leads the blind but lends a helping hand to sighted persons at the Boston office of the Veterans Administration.

The special training officer in the rehabilitation section is Henry D. Maase of Somerville, who lost his sight in a war-time explosion and knows what it is to overcome the handicap of blindness.

Though he works with all veterans, Maase insists the "blind boys are my boys." "I've been in the hospital with them, played with them, been sick with them. They're my pals and I know what they're up against," he said.

Maase believes the hardest problem is convincing people that blindness does not mean total disability.

"We run into it all the time trying to find employment for the blinded veteran. The hardest job is convincing people that a blinded veteran can do a job."

Maase convinced his employers by staying late after work until he learned the floor plan of the building by heart so he could move around without trouble and traveling to and from work without assistance. In consequence, he can assist those with sight.

In his spare time, Maase and his wife go to the movies with another blind veteran and his wife. The women read the captions, explain shifting scenes and have a fine time.

Maase's wife is my eyes," Maase says. "She is better than a seeing eye dog. She does all my reading for me. I don't know what I'd do without her."

But, he said, "She's perfectly normal about it—so normal she can be. If she doesn't feel like reading aloud, she tells me I can just wait."

"That's all right. I couldn't stand any 'you poor blind dear' stuff."

Housewives Buy Fewer Groceries

CHICAGO (AP)—Housewives are buying fewer groceries but are using more spices in home menus, a survey by Northwestern University disclosed.

The "pantry poll," which has just finished its second year, found that a tendency to stock fewer groceries began on V-J Day and has continued downward in many categories.

Charles L. Allen, assistant dean of Northwestern's Medill School of Journalism, is conducting the continuing poll.

Allen said he had not determined whether the trend was the result of using up long-stored supplies or an increasing resistance to high prices.

Less Canned Goods
"At any rate, our poll indicates that families are stocking less and less canned goods," he said.

A major decline was found in the number of persons stocking white and dark bread. In August, 1946, 85 percent of the families polled stocked white bread, while the percentage dropped to 62 in the same month of 1947. A summary of dark bread showed a drop from 35 percent to 18 percent over the same period.

The survey indicated that more women were baking at home, however.

Among the few grocery items which enjoyed purchase increases were cake flour, regular flour, baking powder, cornmeal, flour mixes and cracker meal.

Taking Life Easier
The survey, which covered families from all socio-economic population groups in a large metropolitan area, showed a trend toward "taking life a little easier."

Regular coffee and tea purchases dropped about eight percent, but "instant" coffee doubled and tea bags rose from 32 to 50 percent.

In sharp contrast was the buying of spices. In August, 1946, just six percent of the pantry shelves were stocked with spices, but in 1947 the figure was 88 percent.

Fats and shortenings also suffered considerable declines in percentage. Butter dropped from 76 to 62, margarine from 37 to 23, vegetable shortenings from 67 to 63, and lard from 37 to 21.

Shopping habits were investigated by the pollsters also. It was found that Friday is the big shopping day and Wednesday was the low point. The largest percentage of housewives shop in "independent" stores, the survey showed.

Conscience Cleared
MOULTRIE, Ga. (AP)—A conscience-stricken thief who stole two pairs of pants from a department store here in 1943 returned to pay for them. But the store refused—1, because it had changed managers, and 2, because the thief contributed $15—cost of cause that year's business had the trousers—to the Moultrie Youth Center.
