Edward Bayley Back from West

Edward Bayley, who has been for several months on the west coast, arrived home Friday afternoon to visit here with the home folks for a short time while enjoying a vacation from his railroad work.

On leaving this city, Mr. Bayley was at Chicago where he was employed, then left for the west coast to engage in railroad work at Seattle and other points in the northwest. He was a car inspector for the Union Pacific and other of the western roads for several months, traveling on the line from the Peacetto division west, also at Portland and Seattle. He suffered an attack of illness that made necessary his undergoing hospitalization in Canada.

He reports that the northwest is quite restless with strikes that has affected the working conditions very much and especially on the railroads.

Speaking of railroads Ed states that the Alaskan railroad is going to be one of the big factors in the future in the northwest, best of equipment being supplied and the roadbed prepared to give real service into the Alaskan country where much new development in both Alaska and Canada is being developed. Heavy steel rails and Diesel power for the locomotives are being provided to make the road one that is strictly modern in every way.
