Death of Mrs. D. C. Morgan at Omaha Saturday

The death of Mrs. Kate Oliver Morgan, 82, occurred Saturday morning at the Botts hospital in Omaha, after a long period of illness. She had suffered a stroke on March 2 at her home and has since been gradually failing until her death.

Kate Oliver, was born in Bellevue, Nebraska, March 14, 1866, and spent her girlhood in that community until in 1885 when the mother, Mrs. Kate Oliver moved to Plattsmouth with the family and made this their home for many years. The mother passed away in 1918.

It was in Plattsmouth that Miss Kate Oliver and D. C. Morgan were married and made this their home until the death of Mr. Morgan. The family, for many years, resided in a residence on North 6th street that was finally sold by Mrs. Morgan before she moved to Omaha after the passing of the husband and their only child, Gertrude Morgan.

Mrs. Morgan was an active figure in the social life of the community for many years, a life-long member of the Presbyterian church and also of the PEO society of this city. She was also a member of the state historical society and up until the last few years had retained a deep interest in the affairs of the state and local community.

The funeral services were held today (Monday) at the Brewster-Korisko funeral home in Omaha, Rev. Bancroft of Wheeler Memorial church, officiating, the body being brought later to Plattsmouth for the interment at Oak Hill cemetery. At the cemetery here the pall-bearers were E. H. Wescott, Frank A. Clويد, W. C. Soennichsen, E. A. Wurl, George Tartsch, E. J. Reichey.

Surviving Mrs. Morgan are her sister, Mrs. Julia Eades, of Omaha, four nieces, Mrs. Edith Fay Greenfield, Fern Eades, Omaha; Mrs. Anna Williams of Kansas City, and Mrs. Jaul James, formerly Miss Katherine Schradck of Philadelphia; three nephews, Oliver Hallam of Lincoln, George Alysworth and Arch Alysworth of Kansas City, Mo.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Sattler funeral home, 4th and Vine streets, for Louis B. Neitzel, 81, who had passed away April 28, 1948, at Paris, Texas. The body was brought to this city Saturday morning for the last rites.

The services were in charge of Rev. E. C. Williams, pastor of the First Methodist church, during the services Frank A. Clويد sang, "The Did Rugged Cross," Mrs. Williams being the accompanist. The interment was at the family plot in the Oak Hill cemetery. Pall bearers were relatives and old friends, John Glaze, Edgar Glaze, C. C. Cotner, Albert Cotner, Henry Klingner and Roy Covert.

Louis B. Glaze, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glaze, was born September 19, 1868, at Arago, Nebraska. He has spent the past ten years in Paris, Texas, where he was engaged in the harness business.

He leaves surviving his passing three sisters, Mrs. Catherine Glaze and Mrs. Ida Cotner of Plattsmouth, Mrs. Carrie Schmalz of Humboldt, two brothers, George F. and Jack Neitzel of Omaha.

Knights Templar Honor Past Head Of Commandery

low another Hitler, because of the scarcity of ample food and clothing under the present conditions. German agriculture is woefully antiquated. Milk Cows pull the plows, some of which have wood lathes and grain is cut with a hand sickle. The farms average about 12 acres. After the grain is cut the old people and children come of the city and glean for a few scattered heads of grain that has been dropped.

The soil is won and depleted and no commercial fertilizer is available. Cows' pools are cleaned and taken out to the farms in an effort to strengthen and rebuild the fields.

Although cities were bombed constantly, the farmers were not hurt too badly by the war. Judge Carter pointed out, and still have some produce to sell. The difficulty is that they prefer to sell in on the black market. Soap is scarce, and cigarettes are the medium of exchange. A carton of cigarettes is worth $90. The ratio being 10 marks to the American dollar. For several hours work a German electrician charged Judge Carter four cigarettes. The children spend their time going about the streets scavenging for cigarette butts.

The plight of the German industrialist was shown by the case of the crystal manufacturer who paid 106 percent of what he earned in taxes, 90 percent of his production according to the American military regulations had to be turned in for export, and he could only maintain a normal production because the raw materials came from the Russian zone and very small quantities were released. His employees could make more money by picking wild berries in the woods and selling them on the black market than they could working in his factory.

Transportation is severely crippled and gasoline is 60c a gallon. Switzerland was the only country where there was no black market in money. The Swiss Government maintained rigid control over their money. The Germans have a semi-caste system. Judge Carter told his audience, and the felling seems to prevail that what ever a man's station in life may be he cannot hope to rise above it. The Germans feel that they are the center of culture in Europe, and of the world, but are really very decadent. They have not fundamental conception of Democracy as we know it. They cannot conceive of electing officials. The American military government must recognize these fundamental facts, he said, and not try to uproot the entire system, but resolve to build upon what actually exists. Only the fear that the Russians would be worse, makes the Germans content to accept American leadership.

The War Crimes trials were held by six tribunals, one for each zone, and there were three Judges in each tribunal. The tribunal of which Judge Carter was a member, tried Generals and Field Marshals charged with issuing orders and executing orders resulting in mass murders, establishing concentration camps, shooting allied commandos and military missions even though they were in uniform. The excellent work of the interpreters during the trials was praised. Wire recordings of the trials were made and checked against the court record to insure accuracy. Prosecution was handled by young American lawyers and the criminals were permitted to select German lawyers of their own choice.

Judge Carter took exception to the statement that has been made by some people that the trials were unfair. He declared that if we considered ourselves civilized we cannot stand by and watch innocent people decimated as hostages and killed at a ratio of 100 for every German killed, especially when these hostages killed are living in an area remote from the scene of the actual disturbance. We must see that these ruthless murderers are brought to justice, and work for an International Common law to restrict this and protect the common peoples of the earth from these injustices. He is of the opinion that we must do our part to establish International law to help guarantee that innocent people in the world shall have their share of freedom and protection.
