Mrs. Thomas Martay

Mrs. L. M. Bonham, of Bridgeport, Neb., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. Hugh Hanlan.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowers and two children, Jerry and Steven, of Glenwood, Ia., were visitors at the Richmond Hobson home one day last week. Mr. Bowers owned and operated the Chief Theatre, while living in Weeping Water.

From the World-Herald we quote the following, which was sent by the United Press from Boston: "The Rev. Horton Colbert, minister of the First Universalist Church, at Rochester, Minn., has been appointed national director of the newly created Department of Education in the Universalist Church of America. The Rev. Mr. Colbert is a native of Weeping Water Nebraska." Rev. Horton Colbert is the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Colbert, who moved to California about 1924. He is a nephew of Eugene, and Thomas Colbert, and of Mrs. Clarence Pool, all of Weeping Water.

EVERN SEVEN CONSTABLES CAN'T EVICT HER
NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The seven constables in New Orleans who evict people have a problem in a woman with a 92-year-old mother.

Every time they go to evict the woman she disappears through the back door, leaving her mother to face the constables. "Time after time we have been in her house to serve the notice," one constable said. "Every time she was gone. We would find her mother in bed naked. We couldn't put the old lady out like that and we couldn't dress her."

"But we'll catch her one of these days."
