Bloomfield Man Seeks to Save German Industry

Clade Canaday, the Bloomfield, Nebraska farmer who has earned national recognition through his efforts to help with the feeding of Germany, is now in Germany trying to save one of the industries of Kamen, the town which Bloomfield has "adopted."

Canaday has written to Dwight Dell, state Christian Rural Overseas program director in Lincoln, suggesting that the Bloomfield project be combined with the CROP Goodwill Train project this year, since he has found it necessary to make his a hurried trip.

Residents of Kamen have applied to the people of Bloomfield to try to help them save their factory which makes railway parts. The plant, which employs over 100 men, is marked for immediate dismantling, Canaday reports.

Canaday has with him petitions which were circulated in Knox county asking that the town be permitted to retain its factory. He left for Washington Oct. 14 and from there for Frankfurt, Germany Oct. 15.

"There will try our best to do something useful, if only to let our friends in Kamen know that we recognize the injustice of the dismantling of useful industries," he wrote.

Canaday was dubious about joining the CROP project this fall when he was approached by Dell. He had plans for his own program and had intended to have arrangements made so that he could spend a month or more in Kamen after the November elections.

Kamen's sudden emergency and appeal for help, however, caused him to change his plans and ask that CROP help him out.

He expects to be gone two weeks or more in his effort to help Kamen.

Homemakers Study Children's Needs

The Homemakers class of the high school who are studying the problems of practical homemaking under the direction of their teacher, Miss Doris Atkinson, have had the opportunity of study of the buying problems of the home by visiting local stores and being given demonstration of the judging and purchasing of articles needed.

The class is now studying care and the proper clothing for the small child, as well as materials, qualities and price of the articles that are required for the small child. The class with Miss Atkinson, visited at the Wee Wardrobe this week, where they had an afternoon of real interest. Miss Helen Eiting, owner of the store, gave the members of the class showings of the various articles in the clothing line, the textures as well as seasonal weights of the garments and the price range, giving them a practical knowledge that will be valuable to them in the years to come.

Fred Rice Leaves for California

Fred Rice, who has been back in the old home for the summer, engaged in his trade as plasterer, departed Saturday night for the west coast where he will spend the winter with relatives and friends.

He will make his headquarters at Long Beach and expects to spend the next few months in visiting with relatives and old time friends in that part of the west. Mr. Rice had made his home in California for several years before coming back to Plattsmouth.

Fake Coal Is Six Times as Hot

With real coal a scarce item in Berlin, "ersatz" (imitation) coal is being manufactured in the American sector. It's made of sawdust, coal dust and a tarlike substance, and has six times the heating value of the real thing. It's much cheaper, too. These men work between piles of coal dust and sawdust. Two of Football Team Win New Hats

In the past two years Westcott's, Plattsmouth exclusive clothing store, has made it a policy to each year award a number of hats to members of the football squad that perform certain outstanding service at designated games during the season.

The firm offered a hat to the player making the first Plattsmouth score of the season, this was won by Dan Rohan, captain of the team in the game with Auburn on September 17th in the Nemaha county city.

The firm then offered a hat to the best lineman on the team for the homecoming game here with Wahoo on last Friday. The team all played heads up ball and made the task of the judges a difficult one. The committee selected by Coach Merle Stewart had a hard time in determining the winner and finally decided two of the players were such that it would be necessary to have two hats awarded. The judges selected Carl Ofe and Tom Rohan as the outstanding linemen and the boys will be presented with the champ hats at an early date.

The last award will be for the player who makes the last score for the Blue Devils in the years schedule.

It is seldom that two brothers are slated for two honors but the Rohan brothers have really won the champ hats.

LOCAL PEOPLE RECOGNIZED

In the current issue of the Telephone News, official organ of the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co., there are a number of the local people recognized as new comers and others as veterans of the service.

James Brown and Rolland Drake are among the new employees of the local exchange where they are serving as groundmen with the regular force.

Among the veteran employees are listed J. M. Abrams who is now in his forty-first year of service and Mrs. Georgia Tartsch, who is now serving her thirty-first year in the office of the company.

Fiddlin' Family Takes to Road

Like music? The Graves boys do. Howard drove over to his cousin Perry's house, told his cousin to bring his violin and guitar. Perry climbed in with his instruments and found two fiddlers there.

Bellevue was the next stop, where Andy Graves was loaded in among the fiddles and guitar. The trip had begun, leaving Bellevue about 1:30 or 2 p. m. They arrived in Peru at about 4:15 p. m., and George and Ed Graves were waiting them and George's two sons, one of them a school boy and the other a government employee in Washington, D. C.

At about 5:00 p. m., the music started with two violins, a guitar and piano. Each of the players took turns on each type of instrument until George's wife took over, at about 6:30 p. m., and served a fine evening meal. The food stored away and talk over for a while, back to the music room and more playing.

At 2 a. m., someone remarked that he seemed to be getting sleepy, so the clock was looked at, showing 2 o'clock, so everyone went to bed. Breakfast served at 7 a. m. and over by 8 a. m., the music was resumed, until noon.

Luncheon over, at about 1 o'clock, the fiddlers again saw action. The final tune, "Home Sweet Home" was played at 3:50 and Howard and Perry Graves were headed north to deliver Andy to his home in Bellevue. Again traveling south to the Plattsmouth homes of Howard and Perry and the trip was over.

Feeling blue? Try a trip like that and you won't be.

George and Edward Schaffer of Glendale, California, who have been visiting here.

Checks Out

Joseph P. Earley, of Cleveland, Ohio, left the Army in 1945. The first month he was home, the mailman delivered the regular $50 allotment Earley had made for his wife. Figuring it was a mistake, Earley tossed the envelope into his desk. The next month, and the next and the next and right up to date, the checks kept coming in and Earley kept "filing" the envelopes, unopened. Recently he opened one and found a slip: "Are You Entitled to This Check?" Earley, pictured holding some of the $1700 worth of checks, is arranging for their return to Uncle Sam.
