Mark Tompkins Dies at Home on Sunday

The death of Mark Twain Tompkins, 76, a resident of Plattsmouth for the past twenty-five years, occurred on Sunday at 10:45 following an illness of some duration due to heart trouble that has in the recent months made it difficult for him to get around.
Mr. Tompkins has lived with his aged uncle, Oscar Butts, in a small home on Washington avenue, they keeping house and caring for each other for a period of years.
So far as could be learned there are no other relatives in this section. The body was taken to the Caldwell funeral home at Seventh and Avenue B to await the funeral arrangements.

Bryce Hudson Is Reported Better

Bryce Hudson, son of Dr. and Mrs. O. C. Hudson who has been at the St. Joseph hospital at Omaha for some two weeks is reported at the week end to be some better, although he is still seriously ill.
The many friends of the young men and the family will be pleased to learn that he is showing an improvement. Dr. Hudson, who was at the hospital the greater part of the time since the illness, was able to return home Saturday and to look after his patients. Mrs. Hudson remained at Omaha with the ailing son.

Local Men at Mississippi Valley Meet

Saturday evening T. H. Pollock, chairman of the river navigation committee of the Chamber of Commerce and Clement Woster, former mayor and one of the enthusiastic boosters of the Missouri river improvement program, departed for St. Louis.
The local men will attend the meeting of the Mississippi River Valley association that held their meetings Sunday, Monday and on Tuesday.

Both Mr. Pollock and Mr. Woster attended the meetings last year and were very much impressed by the deep interest shown from representatives of the Valley states. There were over 700 delegates at the convention, and a great deal of interest shown in the proceedings of the meeting.
The convention brought many of the leaders in congress interested in the future development of the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio rivers, their use in the development of inland shipping for the large manufacturing plants, especially in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, where there is a large amount each year sent by water to New Orleans.
One of the big elements of the convention is that of seeking to retain the administration of the river improvement in the U. S. Army engineers that have had charge of the program since it was launched, rather than the handling of the matter from a Washington source. The members of the river group believe that this will insure a greater efficiency in handling the work.
Another of the highlights of the meeting is that of the retention of the barge lines on the rivers and this is particularly strong in the states that border the Ohio river from Pittsburgh to St. Louis and cities along the Illinois river to St. Louis.

It has been a great opportunity for the local representatives to get a clear view of the plans for the future river developments and this information they will be able to present to the local civic bodies. Mr. Pollock and Mr. Woster are expected to be home on Tuesday.

A Good 'Yell' Would Have Gotten Results

If the wife would only have stood up and yelled, "Is there a Doctor in the house," she could have saved herself a long afternoon's wait.
A local doctor, told to meet his wife on the balcony of an Omaha store at one o'clock Thursday afternoon, wound up behind the eight ball. Taking his seat on the balcony, the doctor began a long and lonesome vigil. At 4:30 p. m., heeding the call of nature he took his first and last move.
On the return trip he met the Missus. One look at her eyes told him things weren't working out according to plan. His army career had taught him, "when in doubt, attack." He countered with, "Where the hell you been," but too late. Mama had the range with the heavy artillery and let loose with a long and lasting barrage.
When the smoke of battle cleared, Doc found he had been waiting on the wrong balcony, learning for the first time this particular store had two of 'em.
