F1 Hybrid Flowers Now Winning Garden Awards

Here's a new term for the amateur gardener to learn, if he would be up-to-date in his hobby. It's "F1 hybrid," and if the plant breeder's prophecies come true, it will soon be as common in gardening conversation as D.D.T. and 2,4-D are now.

It means "first generation hybrid," and has become important because of the growing number of F1 hybrid varieties both vegetables and flowers which are being offered by seedsmen. Petunia Silver Medal, top award winner in the All America trials for 1949, is an F1 hybrid. So is Petunia Pink Sensation, last year's bronze medal winner. All hybrid corn varieties grown in this country are F1 hybrids, and there are tomatoes, cucumbers, squash and egg plant varieties of this class.

To produce an F1 hybrid you take two parents, each having merits which you wish to combine. The parents must belong to well-fixed strains, pure bred, and in the case of plants, inbred. When two such parents are crossed, the first generation seed will produce a crop which is uniform, combining the qualities of both parents, and endowed with a mystic quality called "hybrid vigor," which makes it grow faster, stronger, larger and yield more vigorously than others.

But beware of sowing the seed borne by an F1 hybrid plant, that is unless you are an experimenter, seeking something new. The second generation will be as badly mixed as the seed production, and which others cannot duplicate. But there is nothing to prevent other breeders from developing their own F1 hybrids, which may win popular favor.

That is what has taken place with breeders of hybrid corn, and may be expected to develop with F1 hybrid flowers and vegetables in general. Breeding an F1 flower is costly business. In the illustration, the girl is seated before a petunia plant of an inbred variety chosen to be the seed bearing parent of Petunia Silver Medal. Every flower on this plant has had its petals trimmed, and the pollen-bearing organs removed, so it cannot self-fertilize. In the girl's hand is a flower from the pollen parent, pulled off the row behind her. With a small paint brush she takes pollen from this flower, then transfers it to the stigma of a seed bearing flower on the plant before her. This operation must be repeated thousands of times, to produce a seed crop of a true F1 hybrid. At post-war wages, it makes an expensive crop.

Mrs. Parsell gave the first part using a map. These islands are called "Paradise of the Pacific." Weather the year around is about the same. No heating systems usually needed. Opened to world in 1778 when Capt. James Cook discovered the islands. Mrs. Frank Buell told of the missions established there and later the churches. There are eleven W. S. C. S. groups there. The Susanna Wesley Home is an important project of our societies. After the business session the program closed with a reading by Mrs. Plybon, "The Master is Coming." Earlier in the session Mrs. Eldon Mendenhall read the poem "Abou Ben Adam." Mrs. Whittemore was chairman of the social committee.

At the home of Miss Florence Furst in Lincoln, on Friday night, the members of the Bryan Memorial class of which Miss Frances Arnold was a member, honored her with a pre-nuptial shower.

We are glad to write of honors received by people in our community. Charles H. Miller has been elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Otoe County Fair Board for the coming year, to succeed Frank Sorrell of Syracuse. This will make him a member of the State Fair committee. His second honor was when he was presented a silver medal for five years of service as a 4-H leader. This was given by the County Agent, A. H. DeLong at a large meeting of members and leaders at Platts-

If the family needs a sweet bite to finish off the meal, here's the easy dessert with which you can do it: slice icy-cold oranges into thin rounds, sprinkle them with snowy shredded coconut and powdered sugar between the layers. It's truly named ambrosia!

Another special, easy-to-make treat is called "mock angel cake." Trim crusts from slices of day-old bread. Cut slices in one-inch strips. Cover with sweetened condensed milk, then roll in shredded coconut. Place under the broiler to brown lightly.
