

Carmacks Return from Trip to South

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Carmack returned from an extended two months trip through the south. During their visit in Texas they were house guests of Mrs. Carmack's brother, E. J. Kunsman of San Antonio. Mr. Kunsman was born in this city, being the youngest son of the late Carl W. Kunsman one of the old merchants of the city. They also enjoyed several parties while in San Antonio. During their stay they drove through the beautiful Rio Grande Valley and over to old Mexico. While in Brownsville, Texas, they enjoyed a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Reece Hagstian. Mrs. Hagstian was formerly Miss Marjorie Agnew, who will be remembered by many old friends as she made her home in Plattsmouth and Louisville for many years. They also enjoyed a visit to the beautiful memorial and shrine of Will Rogers at Claremore, Oklahoma. Mr. and Mrs. Carmack were house guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hooper at Muskogee, Oklahoma and enjoyed several parties and a dance during their visit in their home.

Deer Reported in Union Community

Residents of the community east and southeast of Union have in the past few days reported seeing a great many young deer wandering around the hills and farms in that locality. Some report seeing some fifteen in a group while others have claimed as many as forty at one time roving through the hills to the east of the town. There has been in recent years, quite a few of the deer found in this locality although not in large numbers, and on one of the Missouri river islands there has been quite a group raised and these occasionally in the summer swim to the mainland to rove up and down the river farms. With the very deep snow in the west and north it is thought that many of the deer that roam in that section have been migrating south and east toward the Missouri river in search of food and shelter among the hills along the river.

Mrs. Margaret Keenan, of Omaha, was in the city this week for a few days visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. H. G. Elting and family.

THE CHICKEN-OF-TOMORROW

CULMINATING a three-year competitive program to find a breeding formula that would add at least 10 per cent more meat to the present-day chicken, the "Chicken-of-Tomorrow" came into its own recently at a dinner-meeting of poultry breeders in New York City.

Conducted by the National Chicken-of-Tomorrow committee under the auspices of the Atlantic and Pacific food stores, the industry-wide competition gave poultry raisers from coast to coast an opportunity to vie for a $5,000 grand championship prize plus $3,000 in regional progress awards.

Dressed poultry contests were conducted among states, the five top-ranking entrants in each of the state contests being eligible to compete in their respective regional trials, with the grand national championships held last spring in Delaware.

In the finals, eggs sent in by the 40 top breeders of the nation were hatched under identical conditions under the supervision of a committee of poultry experts headed up by H. L. Shrader, senior extension poultry husbandman of the United States department of agriculture. In addition to the top cash award of $5,000, there were runner-up prizes totaling $2,000.

The Chicken-of-Tomorrow, introduced to the world for the first time at the poultry breeders' dinner-meeting in New York, boasts a higher percentage of meat to bone structure, with added layers of white meat on the wings as well as meatier drumsticks.

D. D. Slade of Lexington, Ky., secretary-treasurer of the International Baby Chick association and chairman of the national committee which blueprinted specifications for the bird, is confident that the improved strain of meat-type chickens produced under the committee's program will reward both producers and consumers.

First it was "houses of tomorrow." Then "ears of tomorrow," "home appliances of tomorrow," etc. Now it's the Chicken-of-Tomorrow—a bigger and better strain of meat-type chicken developed by a three-year competitive search for a breeding formula that would add 10 per cent more meat to the present-day chicken. Evelyn Short of Millard, Del., is shown holding tomorrow's chicken on her shoulder during a dinner-meeting of poultry breeders in New York City which culminated the competition.

He also pointed out that development of a broad-breasted turkey has helped the gobble out of the holiday class. Development of meatier birds, he said, was partially responsible for a 72 per cent increase in per capita consumption of turkey in the past 15 years.

Similar success, he added, is expected to result from the development of the Chicken-of-Tomorrow.

Garden Club Has Fine Meeting

The Plattsmouth Garden club held a very largely attended meeting on Monday afternoon at the main dining room of the Rainey Coffee shop in the Hotel Plattsmouth building.

The afternoon was most interesting, as Mrs. Edward Berlett discussed the plan of the Nebraska Garden clubs to have Highway No. 75 designated as a Blue Star highway, a memorial to the men and women serving in world war II.

The guest speaker of the afternoon was John S. Hebard, representative of the Marshall Nurseries, one of the best known authorities on landscaping in the state. Mr. Hebard talked on landscape planting, and his remarks were very interesting and followed by a panel discussion in which he answered the questions of the ladies. Mr. Hebard complimented the club on their attendance, remarking it was one of the largest groups that he had talked before in this city.

The Washington birthday theme was carried out in the refreshments and napkins. Mrs. Louis Hansen had arranged a small cherry tree that was used as part of the decorative plan.

Good Deeds Uncredited

COLUMBUS, O.—When Samuel McKain was knocked down by a bicyclist, a Boy Scout hurried into a nearby doctor's office for aid. But McKain believe the youth should receive th credit for his "good deed." The Boy Scout was the bicyclist who hit McKain.

Horse in a Hurry

DETROIT—Charged with speeding his junk wagon into the side of an automobile, Louis Small, 62, explained to the judge that his horse, Bob just couldn't help being in a hurry. "He always speeds to get home for supper," he said.

KNOW YOUR WEATHER

Frosts frequently occur when the average temperature of the air over a wide area is several degrees above freezing. An example of frost's odd behavior is the fact that the air at the top of a tree may be considerably warmer than the air at its base.

Body of Alvo Man Being Returned

The U. S. Army transport, Danton Victory is now enroute to the United States from the Pacific area bringing home a large number of the war dead from cemeteries on the Pacific islands, scene of much of the most severe fighting of World War II.

Among those returning on the boat is the body of Charles R. Clark of Alvo. The next of kin is given as Mrs. Esther Clark of Alvo. It will be several weeks before the transport will reach here and the bodies sent to their destination.

Telephone Company Honors Its Veterans

The February issue of the Lincoln Telephone News has citations for a number of their veteran employees who have been with them for any considerable number of years.

Among those having their pictures are Mrs. Harriett Wynn, thirty years; Miss Ruth Janda, twenty years, both with the local exchange. Elizabeth D. Edwards is also rated as a nine year employee of the company. These ladies have helped keep up the service to the patrons of the telephone company.

UNDERGOES APPENDECTOMY

Grenda Jones, granddaughter of Mrs. Joe McCarthy of this city, was operated on Wednesday at the Children's hospital at Omaha. She is reported as recovering nicely from the operation for appendicitis.

More than 900,000 species of animals are now known and well over 600,000 of them are insects.

Wise Farmer Has Corn Moved Tuesday

Archie Stull, who has extensive farm interests along the Platte bottom, north of Plattsmouth, is taking no chances with the threat of high water in the next two months.

On Tuesday he had a large force of men engaged in moving the corn that had been stored along the Platte bottom, near the W. E. Holly cottage, having it shelled and removed to another storage place on the hills to the southwest. One force of the men was engaged in shelling on the bottom, while another force was at the devery place to unload the corn into the new bins, where it will be held and be safe from the danger of high water when it comes.

Mr. Stull estimated that there were some 1,400 bushels of the corn taken out and restored in the new place where it will remain until disposed of by the owner.
