

Weeping Water

Mrs. Thomas Murty

The Easter egg hunt, which was sponsored by the Weeping Water Community Club, met with a happy response, Saturday afternoon, when about one hundred fifty children gathered in Wolcott's Park, to hunt for colored Easter eggs, which the Camp Fire girls had taken great pleasure in dyeing, and preparing them for the event. Every child went home with a souvenir of the hunt. The children who found the gold egg, received fifty cents. The children who found the silver eggs received a quarter. Those finding more than one egg, received candy bars, and those who found none, received colored Easter eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Malstead and family spent the Easter week end at the home of Mr. Malstead's parents, at Norfolk. Supt. R. C. Porter went to Cedar Falls, Iowa, to spend Easter Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Porter.

Coach P. L. Hines and wife spent the week end with relatives at Wilbur.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Jewell arrived home Wednesday after a two years stay in California, and they are again located in their farm home, adjoining Weeping Water on the south. The fine spring like weather brought many people to church, Sunday. All churches had a large attendance, with special music. Sgt. Sterling Marshall presided at the pipe organ at the Congregational Church, Sunday morning, and special music was furnished by the choir, under the direction of their leader, Mrs. C. V. Wallick. The Methodist Church had the pleasure of hearing their new boys robed choir, for the first time. Their fine singing and their neat appearance in their white robes and black ties, was a real pleasure to those who were present at the service. They were directed by Mrs. Eugene Ludwick.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wolcott, came from Deshler, Friday, for a week's visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wolcott.

Carol Roberts, who is a student at the State University, spent his Easter vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roberts.

Sunday was Mrs. Emmor Marshall's birthday, and a group of her friends gathered at her home in the afternoon to visit and to meet her sister, Mrs. Adda Smith, of Youngstown, Ohio, who is her house guest. Those attending were Paul Girard, Miss Rosalie Girard, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wolcott, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Mutter, Mrs. Edna Dowler, Mrs. George Ellis, Miss Katherine Ellis.

Mrs. Peter Andersen entertained at an Easter dinner when her guests were Mrs. Henry Snell, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Mutter, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mutter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson, George Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Renos Andersen and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Armstrong of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rohdanz, were Easter day guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rauth, Mrs. Peter Andersen and Mrs. Henry Snell were Plattsmouth visitors Saturday.

Easter day guests at the Oscar Uffelman home were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiles and Mr. and Mrs. Don Wiles, Richard and Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kennedy and Mrs. Belle Wenke of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cowley, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Wenke, of Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wenke and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Wenke of Tenner, South Dakota; and George Boedecker of Boulder, Colorado, came to Weeping Water Monday, to attend the funeral of Mr. E. J. Boedecker.

Mr. and Mrs. Mogens Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith went to Avoca Sunday and enjoyed their Easter day dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, Jr. Other guests who joined them there were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Boyd of Bellevue.

Sgt. Sterling Marshall returned to Salina, Kansas, Monday, after a few days furlough at the home of his mother, Mrs. Emmor Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rugha enjoyed their Easter dinner at the home of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lindhart, in Elmwood.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Berthold and Otto Berthold of Nebraska City, were Sunday evening visitors at the Art Berthold home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Bickford and family spent Easter Sunday at the home of Mrs. Bickford's grandmother, Mrs. Emma Morton, at Union.

For Beauty and Abundance Lay Out Garden This Way

Most home gardeners will agree that even a flower border is no more beautiful than a precisely laid-out vegetable plot, with crops growing in straight parallel rows, squared with plot boundaries, without a weed to be seen.

Not only beauty, but efficiency is gained by such a layout. One quick trip with a wheel hoe down the straight aisle between two rows will destroy hundreds of weed sprouts, in a fraction of the time required to cultivate a disorderly garden.

Rows should be spaced with varying distances between them, depending on two factors: The needs of the crop, and the convenience of cultivation. In rich soil vegetables may be spaced more closely than in poor; but when spaced too close together, it is difficult to cultivate between the rows.

Crops growing twelve inches tall or less may be spaced 10 inches to a foot apart if cultivated with hand tools. For a wheel hoe, eighteen inches is likely to be found a minimum distance to avoid disturbing the roots of the vegetables.

Taller vegetables, and those that make vines, large bushes, or have a sprawling habit, must be given more distance between rows. In small gardens, 4 feet will usually be the maximum distance, given only for such crops as bush squash and cucumbers.

After you know where the rows are to be, a line should be stretched to mark the first row.

Some gardeners use a straight, narrow board as a ruler to mark the row. A heavy cord wound on an iron reel is handy, but any strong cord stretched between two stakes will do.

Using the corner of a hoe, draw a line in the soil shallow enough with this line as a guide. This is known as a drill. Some prefer to use the end of the hoe handle rather than the corner of the blade.

Others have small hoes which they like; but it is more a matter of taste than of the tool.

For small seeds such as radishes, onions, carrots, lettuce, and peas, a drill half an inch deep is enough. A little deeper for beets and Swiss chard, and an inch for peas, beans and sweet corn will be sufficient.

Shallow sowing is preferred nowadays in the cool, moist spring, but make drills a little deeper when hot weather comes.

Mrs. Charles Spohn spent Easter Sunday at the home of her son, LaMoine Spohn and family, near Elmwood.

Mrs. R. C. Porter accompanied her group of Blue Bird girls, known as the Blue Bell group, on a hike Tuesday afternoon, when they took a sack lunch, and thoroughly enjoyed the trip out of town.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Marion Spaneler, who underwent a major operation at Bryan Memorial hospital Wednesday, of last week, is regaining her strength and is in a satisfactory condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Moore are visiting their daughter and family at Washington, D. C. for a few weeks.

Walker Williams is home for a furlough from Camp Chaffee in Arkansas. He is visiting his father and sister, Edith, and relatives and friends.

Appropriate Easter services were held in the churches here. Rev. J. A. Adams preached at the Christian Church, and several new members were received into the E. U. B. Church, and around fifteen at the Methodist Church.

Word has been received of the death of a former resident, Carl Hardy, at Berkeley, California. The Farmers Elevator placed two car loads of cinders around their premises and the depot, the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Clara Cowger of California, arrived last week and is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ray Parsell, and other relatives.

A number of people from here attended the Golden Wedding Anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Mart Nickel on Sunday, April 3rd.

THE BIG DECISION . . . In one of the greatest comebacks in film history, Willie Pep won a 15-round decision in a return bout with Sandy Saddler at Madison Square Garden to regain the featherweight title he had lost to Saddler last October. In this speed camera action photo Saddler tries vainly to protect himself as Pep follows through with a terrific right.

WHITNEY FORD, better known to his many friends as the "Duke of Paducah," is a surprise to those who meet him after listening to his hillbilly routine on the air . . . He's a distinguished looking gentleman with iron gray hair, somewhat on the stocky side . . . Rather than a comedian you would picture him as a typical senator or other high political official . . . He has a trace of a drawl that is almost imperceptible—first you catch it, then you don't.

Whitey hails from Arkansas rather than the blue-grass state he talks about on the air . . . Actually, he was born in Missouri but, according to him, "My folks saw I had no talent as a pianist and I probably wouldn't grow up to be president, so they moved over to Arkansas." One of his best friends is Eddy Arnold, singing cowboy also from Arkansas . . . The two make numerous appearances together around the country . . . His is the only Arkansas family with a crest of arms, he'll tell you with a twinkle, and sure enough, on his calling card is the Ford symbol—two crossed coils of corn with a pair of high shoes above and a little wooden wagon below . . . Of course it's completed with his now famous line, "these shoes are killin' me."

PLATTER CHATTER
VICTOR: Rose Murphy, the "Checco" girl, has recorded "Girls Were Made To Take Care Of Boys" and if you like Rose that's all that's necessary . . . She's done about as well as she can on this number and turns in a rather cute side on the reverse in "Busy Line" . . . Alfred Drake and Jane Fickens combine talent to turn in a fine job on two new Cole Porter tunes . . . "Funderbar" and "Why Can't You Behave?"

CAPITOL: Margaret Whiting comes up with another winner (this gal has been ringing the bell consistently the past few years) in "Dreamer With A Penny" and its coupling, "Forever And Ever" . . . Eddie Kirk, one of the better western-style singers, has a good combination in "Candy Kisses" and "Save The Next Waltz For Me."

The canary holding its popularity as a caged songbird, takes its name from its native locality, the Canary Islands. The name stems from canis, the Latin word for dog, says the National Geographic Society, perhaps because of the dog-headed shape of Tenerife, largest island of this Spanish group.
