

Report WCF Meeting Held at Norfolk

Mrs. Alpha Mauzy, local delegate, and Mrs. L. B. Dalton, second vice-president of the first district, attended the convention of the Nebraska Federation of Woman's clubs, held March 22-25 at Norfolk, Nebraska.

Among the many interesting speakers were Mrs. Dwight Griswold, who spoke on her experiences living in Germany and Greece, and who displayed a collection of rare silver and tapestry obtained in her travels. She also wore a dress of heavily brocaded silk made and worn in Greece, and a black handmade lace shawl. Many of the articles she displayed had been gifts from people she met and were several centuries old.

Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck, general federation president, reviewed her recent trip to the Orient in the interests of club women in Japan, Korea, China and the Philippines. She stressed the fact that all courtesies shown to her in her travels were not to her as an individual, but as the rep-representative of the large organization of woman's clubs that she serves as president. The women of the Orient are searching for ways to make life better for their people, since they now have more freedom in governmental affairs. It is to our interest to help them develop. Mrs. Buck believes, as a means of furthering peace.

Governor Val Peterson spoke on the Missouri river basin development plan for building dams and conserving water as well as saving our soil from serious erosion which is threatening its fertility.

Dr. Victor P. Marey, president of Wayne State Teachers college, stressed the need of informed women to promote better educational facilities for the present generation as well as looking toward the future. He stated the percentage of students attending college is going down according to the increase in population, he also stressed the international view in education and preparing our young people to live in a world where Europe is only an overnight trip from New York.

Dr. Otto G. Holborg, supervisor of the community service department of the University of Nebraska, outlined plans for the theme, "Build Your Community." This is a field where women have a close and vital interest and in many ways can be of service in the promotion of health, safety, recreation and beauty.

Mr. Ralph Raikes, Ashland, a member of the recent farm tour to Europe showed very interesting films of countries visited and farming methods. They are beginning to use modern field machinery, large tractors, etc., abroad. In a few years their production showed increase, accordingly. He stated that some of the finest farm land he had ever seen lies in parts of these countries. It needs development and new methods of farming to increase the productivity.

A trip to the Norfolk State hospital for the mentally ill, was marred by rain, but the marvelous work being done by these doctors and nurses under overcrowded conditions and the difficult cases which come to them for care was amply shown. As taxpaying citizens we should be more concerned as to the problems and needs of our state hospitals.

There were also many fine musical numbers during the two day session and as hostesses, the Norfolk Woman's club can be very proud of the success of this convention. Over 650 women from 126 clubs were registered.

In effect, all 43 members of the legislature would be members of the council, with subcommittees appointed by a three man executive board. This board would be composed of the speaker, council chairman, and chairman of the committee on committees.

Only senators willing to devote the necessary time would be appointed and reports would be reviewed by the whole legislature, rather than by the present 16-member council.
