The American Legion Auxiliary heard the Girl State report of Donna Jean Embury Tuesday. She participated in the election of officers, campaigned and was elected as County Treasurer from Magnuson County. She was a Federalist. Girls State had special instructions as to the voting, the filing for office, conducted their elections for governor, state and county offices. They toured the capitol, heard Governor Val Peterson, listened to Girls State legisla-ture. They were privileged to see Mrs. Val Peterson in the governor's mansion. Donna Jean as County Treasurer, had her instruction in Lincoln city hall. She was a member of Butler Center, which was designated as Honor City when the awards were given. For recreation they toured the university campus, had a joint Boys and Girls State dance, a square dance, shopped. Their alumni banquet was Saturday night which Beverly Bonner attended.

Election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. Clarence Embury.

Vice President, Mrs. Melvin Sturm.

Secretary, Mrs. Stuart Schlichtemeier.

Treasurer, Mrs. Ivan Hansen.

Chaplain, Mrs. Merritt Pollard.

Historian, Mrs. R. R. Anderson.

Sgt.-of-Arms, Mrs. Gilbert Kime and Mrs. Ned Zutman.

Executive Committee, Mrs. Ernest Kropp, Mrs. H. Barkhurst and Mrs. E. Nitzman.

Guests were Miss Lillian Small, Marilyn Embury and Beverly Bonner. The hostesses, Mrs. Dan Anderson, Mrs. Merritt Pollard and Mrs. Walter Engel-emeier served delicious straw-berry shortcake.

Announcement was received by relatives and friends Tues-day of the marriage of Miss Maxine Ruth Balfour to Mr. John Joseph Barrett on June 4th at Santa Monica, California. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max E. Balfour.

Mr. and Mrs. Cary Nixon of Cleveland, Ohio are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Switzer.

MOST PHOTOGRAPHED MAN IN AMERICA

YOU WILL SCARCELY be able to get through Cherokee, N.C., without seeing Carl Standingdeer, who is the most-photographed man in America. An excellent archer and authority on Cherokee lore, he has the job of "chiefting" at a souvenir shop.

"Chiefting" is the unique profession of looking like an Indian chief to slow tourists down. Wearing a headdress of eagle feathers (strictly phoney, because the Cherokees never used this plains Indian gear), and other regalia, Carl is a sure-fire attention-getter, especially when he starts showing off his skill as an archer.

Sixty-eight years old, Carl has been in the chiefting business for some 40 years, and he estimates that he is asked to pose about 200 times a day on the average. That comes out at 2,520,000 snapshots which are lying around in the albums of two generations of Americans.

Some of the photographers tip the Indian, and on a good day, he will pick up $15. One day (a record) he got $36. Carl never asks for a tip and is just as cheerful with the non-tippers as the tippers.

He likes to have his picture made, too, and because of his pronounced Indian features, his picture has appeared in hundreds of magazines and newspapers throughout the country.

"Do you ever ask the camera bugs if they aren't afraid they'll break their camera?" he was asked once.

"No," he replied. "I did once—but that was years ago."

Carl is a graduate of the old Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania, and served in the cavalry during the Mexican border trouble, but not as a scout, as you might suppose. Instead, he tooted a brass horn in the mounted band. But, like most Cherokees, he became lonely for the Big Smokies and came home to chief some.

Chiefting, incidentally, is such a
