YOUR TAVERN KEEPER IS A GOOD CITIZEN

The tavern keeper of your community is a tax payer and contributor; he maintains a home, spends money with local merchants and industries, employs local help and carries his share of the responsibilities of government.

Like all forward-looking business men, he strives to conduct his establishment in such a way as to gain the public approval, necessary to business success.

He is a definite part of your community. He wants to take part in, and contribute toward, the success of all worthwhile community activities.

His cooperation should be invited and encouraged.

Grain Drying Demonstration for This State

Grain drying demonstrations are scheduled to be set up at six Nebraska points to show farmers how to prevent millions of dollars loss resulting from storage of wheat with an excessive moisture content.

The agricultural engineering department of the University of Nebraska is sponsoring the demonstrations of forced unheated air drying to reduce the grain's moisture content, making it safe for storage.

Demonstration drying units will be set up soon in Sarpy, Gage, Thayer, Adams, Phelps and Cheyenne counties. The engineers say farmers will be able to see for themselves the money saving advantages.

The cost of drying, the engineers say, may range from below one cent of five cents a bushel. Time of taking out the moisture may range from one or two days up to two weeks. The cost of drying, they add, can be paid for with a few bushels of wheat.

Wheat experts say "sick wheat" may result if the moisture content is more than 12 percent. The deterioration is not likely to begin during the normal dormant period of 30 to 45 days after harvest. But following the dormant period there may be damage whenever moisture and temperature conditions favor the disease.

little investment. Main necessities in equipment are a lateral dust system or a raised perforated floor in the bin and a fan mechanism.

J. C. "Chet" Swinbank, secretary of the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association, says 708 cars of wheat on the Omaha market have rated "sample grade" since July 1 of last year. Reason was deterioration in storage.

Best means of preventing the deterioration, the experts say, is to dry wheat to below 12 percent as soon after harvest as possible. The University's agricultural engineers have worked out plans for drying the grain in the bin.

Extension Engineer E. A. Olson says the facilities require He says the same principal can be used for drying hay and shelled corn. Successful experiments have been conducted at the University's farm. He believes the facilities on the average farm would pay for themselves in one crop year.

Propeller fans needed will range in cost for $175 to $250 without the motor. The fans have curved blades similar to the shape of an airplane propeller. They're mounted on a small hub and range in diameter from 25 to 60 inches. It's light in weight and compact, requiring little space for installation. It's a high speed mechanism and may be obtained with pulley drives or for direct connection to electric motors.

Full information on grain drying is contained in Extension Circular 736, available at the offices of all county agents.

Mr. and Mrs. Denny Quinlan left last week to join her husband in Chicago, where he is attending school.

Last Friday, July 11th, little Lowell Schaefer celebrated his 4th birthday at his home by inviting a number of his little friends and their mothers to spend the afternoon with him. After a "session of games" Lowell opened his gifts which was one of the high lights of the afternoon. Mrs. Schaefer then invited the little guests to the dining room where they found favors which created lots of fun. Then came ice cream and a beautiful birthday cake with four pink candles, animal sugar cookies and fruit drink. Pictures were taken of the merry party and the time to depart came too soon for the little folks. Those present were: Mrs. Donald McQuinn, Ramona, Donna and Patty; Mrs. Lowell McQuinn and Marcia; Mrs. Mitchell Rich and twin girls, Iola Mae and Irene Fay; Kenneth Surface; Leon Fitzpatrick, Tom McQuinn; Mrs. Andy Garfield and Johnny and Mrs. Todd.

The Tom McQuinn home was sold last week to Mr. and Mrs. William Jorgensen of Nehawka.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell McQuinn and daughter, Marcia, of Plattsmouth enjoyed an out-door supper at the Russ Schaefer home last Friday evening.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met at the church last Thursday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in quilting and a short business meeting was held also. Fourteen ladies and six children attended. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostess, Mrs. Todd.

Pauline Schoneberger spent the week end in Omaha, visiting friends.

Jesse Dysart was able to return home from Brown Hospital, where he had been treated for an ear infection.

Lightning Is Cause of Fires

Lincoln—Lightning—nature's artillery—is one of the greatest causes of farm fires, costing thousands of dollars in property damage in Nebraska every year, according to agricultural engineering specialists at the University of Nebraska.

National Safety County statistics say lightning destroys $20,000,000 worth of farm property in the United States, takes the lives of 500 people and injures, 1,300 others each year.

The engineers say buildings can be protected by keeping these hoards of electrical charges from swarming over them through the use of proper lightning rod systems. The National Safety Council recommends these precautions for personal safety when a storm approaches:

Don't remain out of doors during thunderstorms unless necessary. If there is any choice of shelter to enter, choose these in the following order: Large metal frame building, dwelling or other building which is protected against lightning, large unprotected building and small unprotected building.

The specialists advise if one is unavoidably out of doors to keep away from isolated trees, wire fences, hilltops and wide open spaces and small sheds and other shelters in an exposed location.

FIRST IRON WARSHIP TO BE SCRAPPED
Erie, Pa. (U.P.)—Plans are being made to junk the 106-year-old U.S.S. Wolverine, the world's first iron warship.

Various organizations, including Henry Ford's Dearborn Museum, have tried to get possession of the vessel, but the Erie Foundation for the Wolverine failed to raise the thousands of dollars needed for restoration and decided to dismantle the ship.

The Wolverine's keel was laid in Erie in 1843 and she maintained order on Lake Erie for 80 years. The vessel was taken off active duty several years ago and docked for the last time at Presque Isle.

TIP ON CHICKEN PIE
Lincoln—Chicken pie is rapidly becoming a favorite dish with the homemakers. Mabel Doremus, extension foods and nutrition specialist of the College of Agriculture suggests adding eggs to give extra nutritive value and for thickening of the gravy in the pie.

Beat the egg thoroughly, add a little hot thickened broth slowly and stir the mixture into the remaining broth. Pour over the chicken in the baking dish. The egg gives a slightly thick gravy. Eggs may be added to many other sauces to build up food value, according to Miss Doremus.
