FRIENDLY THOUGHTS

We stand awed by the works of nature. We are in the presence of an immensity that makes material, selfish gain seem paltry. And in like proportion it makes us feel the transcending value of glory... unselfishness... sympathy.

There is no more powerful force at work in a community than Public Belief. It directs the choice of nearly everyone when the necessity for sympathetic service arrives.

Medical Discoveries Aid Epileptics

THEY LOOK like everyone else. They are no smarter, no more ignorant. Some have poor jobs, others excellent jobs. Some inhabit cities, others farms; some are in jail, others in hospitals... just like any similar group representing all income and social levels.

This group of Americans contains 800,000 men, women and children, all with one thing in common that separates them from others—they have epilepsies.

Misdiagnosed as insanity in early civilization, the affliction today continues to be misunderstood... even by those who have it. Pathetic questions—"Can I marry?"—"Can I have children?"—"Can I get a job?"—beset family doctors.

To combat fear and ignorance surrounding epilepsy, the American Epilepsy League has been organized as a non-profit organization. It seeks to make living easier for epileptics.

About 50 per cent of all epileptics can control their seizures completely, and another 25 per cent can exercise almost complete control over these electrical storms in the brain cells. Control of seizures does away with physical signs of the illness and eliminates problems of personal relationship.

But many epileptics avoid treatment because fear and public misunderstanding won't let them admit they have the disease. And good treatment is hard to find, because methods have come only recently out of the research laboratories.

All types of epilepsy are caused by mild brain injury or severe nervous shock. The kind of seizure depends upon the part of the brain injured. The three main types are not just degrees of one main illness.

Epilepsy's cause can be compared to overload on some of the trunk lines of a telephone switchboard. In the non-epileptic brain, the board can sort out the "calls" or stimuli, keeping each cell separate and giving a "busy signal" when the line is in use. Seizure comes when the board is jammed without being able to sort the calls, or when it places more than one call on the same line at the same time.

Nurse takes readings from electro-encephalograph, a machine used to measure electrical impulses of the brain. The readings are means of determining a patient's epilepsy.

Epilepsy has been likened to overflow of a dam that curbs the river of nervous energy. Treatment is building the dam higher. Different drugs are used to strengthen the different dams or parts of the nervous system that overflow to cause the three major types of epilepsy: grand mal, petit mal and psychomotor.

One of the most exact ways to learn the full story of a patient's epilepsy is the use of the electro-encephalograph or brain wave recorder. This device identifies the various types of the disease from electrical currents given off by the brain and records the currents.

When more modern information about epilepsy is known by doctors, the average epileptic will lead a happier life. Most of the barriers that keep the patient from leading a normal life are artificial. Many persons think that the person with epilepsy is completely handicapped. They fail to consider ways he is handicapped and the length of time the handicap conflicts with normal life or work.

By ignoring degree of handicap, many laws and administrative practices are unfair to epileptics. Epileptics can work, go to school, be married and have children... if the public will accept them as it accepts other people.

It is not hard to understand why the average employer does not want to hire an epileptic. During an epileptic seizure, the epileptic is not only a danger to himself, but also often a danger to his fellow employees.

However, all forms of employment need not be of a dangerous nature and, where the patient and his fellow employees know that an attack may occur, slight precautions on the patient's part and on the part of other employees renders it safe for many epileptics to earn their own living.

As a number of returned soldiers, sailors, and airmen have such mental and emotional disturbances that epileptic attacks have resulted, everything must now be done to restore them insofar as possible to their best physical and mental condition. This is called rehabilitation.

Selective Service to Be at Omaha

The Cass County selective service board has been notified that the activities of the board will after the first of August be transferred to Omaha and the business of the board will be handled from that place.

The Cass county board is composed of E. O. Vroman, chairman, E. P. Stewart and Charles Swan of Union. The board will have to review their cases at Omaha in the future it is fore-shadowed and this will mean that the youth of the county will probably be required to report there after the first of the month.

The registration law requires that all youth reaching eighteen years of age should register under the selective service act and accordingly the registration will be centralized.

It is expected that more extended information and instruction will be issued after the first of August covering the changes, as the change will take place from the first to the twentieth of August.

Col. Fingarson Assigned to Fortress Monroe

Colonel George Fingarson of Cumings, N. D., has been assigned to the office, chief, Army Field Forces, Fort Monroe, Va., as Chief of the Transportation section, General Jacob L. Deviers, Army Field Forces, has announced.

A graduate of the University of North Dakota, Class of 1917, Colonel Fingarson has attended courses at the infantry school, Fort Benning, Ga., and the command and general staff college, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1917.

During World War II, Col. Fingarson was assigned in various capacities with the New York Port of Embarkation. His principal assignments were as Troop Movement Officer and later, Chief of Staff of the port. He was on duty there from June, 1941 to October, 1946.

Participants In Farm Safety Week

Beyond a word of doubt, the farmers of Cass County are the very life of our communities.

On February 6, 1907, John Bauer and Miss Emma Wehrbein, member of one of the old families of Cass county, were married and have since that time made their home in Plattsmouth at the residence at 224 Fourth avenue.

There is surviving his death, the wife, Emma; one son, John F. Bauer of Plattsmouth and one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Love, of Anchorage, Alaska; one sister, Mrs. Louis W. Egenberger.

The funeral services for Mr. Bauer will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Sattler funeral home, 4th and Avenue A. Services will be in charge of Rev. E. J. Moritz of St. Paul's church.

Visiting hours at the Sattler funeral home will be Friday from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p.m.

her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Ellis. Mr. Homer Fleeman had his father, Mr. G. R. Fleeman from Fairplay, Missouri, as a guest last week.

Mrs. Leon Stoker of Shelby, Ia., daughter of Mrs. Olive Murty, was here Monday on business. Mrs. Stoker says that her mother will be in the hospital for quite some time yet since the treatment necessary requires that she stay there. In the event that she is released from the hospital, Mrs. Murty will, in all probability, go to Shelby where she will be in Mrs. Stoker's care.

From friends comes the news of Miss Betty Lou Meyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers wedding to Vernon Smith of Fort Dodge, Iowa. The marriage took place at Zion Lutheran church Sunday, July 24, in Omaha.

Mr. Jack Hays is able to work a few hours each day at Gibson's grocery store. He is feeling much better following a recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tool of Murdock, Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon of Alvo, Mr. Don McKinnon and Mr. Chas. Creezo of Columbus, Ohio, were visitors of Mr. Minerva Gorder Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gruber and children, Clarissa, Tommy and George of Murray, were Sunday visitors at the Byron Baker home. Clarissa stayed over this week for a longer visit with her aunt and uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rauth had as Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor of Alvo, Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hansen of Greenwood were also guests of the Rauths.

Visiting with the C. E. and E. C. Day families were Dr. and Mrs. R. O. Jones and daughters, Patty Lou and Margaret, A. R. Jones, all of Bradenton, Fla., and Mrs. Moore of Norfolk, Va.

PRETTY COMPETITOR... Miss Jacqueline Mercer, 19, Phoenix college sophomore, named "Miss Phoenix of 1949," will compete for the title of "Miss Arizona."

A picnic was planned for Saturday evening at the E. C. Day home. The guests left Monday enroute to Yellowstone and Estes Park.

Latest reports of Robert Hoeman, who was injured Saturday night in a car accident about a mile north of Springfield, are that he was released from the Methodist hospital Sunday at noon. Thirty stitches were required to close the various cuts received when he failed to make a bridge crossing, being blinded by the dust from a passing car.

Mrs. Elva Gardner and daughter, Gwendolyn, of Jamaica, British West Indies, is visiting at the Troy Jewell home. Mrs. Gardner is Dean of Women at the Indian Training school in Jamaica. She has been attending summer school at the University of Nebraska and has been cited as one of fifteen best students at the University and considered one of the best teachers of the United States.

This fact is obvious to all those other than farmers. We in the cities can only suggest safety precautions, but it is up to Mr. Farmer to cooperate. It is the serious desire of all city folk that Farm Safety Week be observed, not only one week, but fifty-two weeks of the year.

The following implement dealers and local merchants have made possible this splendid informational campaign to curb farm accidents, to reduce them to a minimum and thus preserve the wealth of our nation.
