

Visits Friends In Colorado

On his recent trip to Colorado on a summer outing, W. R. Holy of this city, had a very pleasant visit at Central City, Colorado, with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, Jr., former residents of Plattsmouth, who have been located in that part of the west for a number of years. Mrs. Scott will be remembered here as the former Nora Livingston, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. T. P. Livingston.

Mr. Scott, who is a mining engineer, is associated with some of the large mining interests in Colorado and they have been making their home in Central City, located in the heart of the mining country.

While at Central City Mr. Holy had the pleasure of attending the performances at the Central City Opera House, pioneer place of entertainment that has been revived and is a national attraction as many of the New York City casts are brought there each year to perform on the stage and draws thousands from Denver and other parts of the west.

This pioneer town of the early goldfields has been restored as near as possible to the old days.

Plattsmouth friends will be interested in learning that Dr. Robert Ramsey Livingston, brother of Mrs. Scott, is now in practice at Aspen, Colorado, where he is in charge of a hospital in that city and is one of the outstanding members of the medical profession in that part of the state.

Funeral Services For J. G. Meisinger

Monday afternoon the St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church was filled to its capacity by the relatives and friends of the departed J. G. Meisinger, resident of Cass County for practically a lifetime.

Rev. E. J. Moritz, pastor of the church, had charge of the services and brought to the members of the bereaved family a message of hope and consolation in the passing of the loved husband, father and grandfather.

Frank A. Clodt gave two of the old hymns during the service, "Asleep in Jesus" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul" with Mrs. Ferd Nolte as the accompanist.

The interment was at the Oak Hill cemetery with nephews serving as the body bearers, Bernard, Harold and Stuart Meisinger, Emil J. Hild, Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Francis and Theodore Libershal of Lincoln.

The Sattler funeral home of this city had charge of the funeral arrangements.

council could consult their engineers as to the advisability of the removal of the paving.

Mayor Rogers and Clerk Olson were authorized to sign up the articles of agreement with the state on the repaving of Chicago avenue, the only change made from the original agreement was that the city and state should jointly participate in the advertising of the bids.

Councilman Arn, who has been looking over the matter of the disposal of the used brick from the recently repaved districts, stated that a very fair estimate made by those familiar with the sale of the brick, was that a price for the used brick would be two cents apiece. The sale of the brick will be in the hands of the city clerk and the members of the police force.

The council also voted to approve the moving of the office of the city clerk to the Chris-wiser building, where Mr. Olson has the office of the Plattsmouth Loan & Building association, making it much more convenient to the public as well as the clerk.

Police Judge C. L. Graves reported that for the week of July 17th there had been three arrests and fines and costs of $34.25 and for the week of July 24, three arrests and fines and costs of $34.25.

With the allowance of the regular claims, the council adjourned at the close of a very interesting session.

The serving will open at 5:30 and will continue into the evening.

They are going to Tacoma, Washington for a short stay and then on to Oregon for a visit. They later plan on going to California where they have a large number of old friends located.

Mr. and Mrs. John Meisinger, Jr., left Thursday morning for Soda Springs, Idaho, where they expect to spend some time visiting Mrs. Percy Beind, a sister of Mrs. Meisinger.

The first sailing club was established in 1720 in Ireland.

I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From Louise M. Barr of Springfield, Ill.: "I remember when a child living in Mason County, Kentucky, and all our neighbors would put several corn cobs in a can filled with kerosene (coal oil). Then they would use one cob a day to kindle the cook stove fire."

From E. E. Meredith of Fairmont, W. Va.: "I remember when one could distinguish country folks from the town folks by their dress and manners. There was a time when hardly a boy in the country and only a few of the young lassies dressed and carried themselves in such a way that they might be taken for town-folks. Now these distinguishing characteristics have entirely disappeared."

From Gertrude Richmond of Indio, Calif.: "I remember when bustles were all the go. Some were made of rags, some of wire, and what a nuisance they were, coming loose and letting the skirt down! The skirt was longer in the back in order to hang even with the bustle in place, and the skirt would wipe up all the dirt on the sidewalk when the bustle loosened. What a time we had trying to keep in style!"

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: "I can remember when traveling salesmen were called 'drummers'. They carried carpet bag satchels, were dressed in loud attire and girls were warned not to speak to them. In small towns they were looked upon as a menace."

From A. B. Knight of Fairmont, W. Va.: "I remember when a man carried his toothbrush in his vest pocket with the brush part showing."

From Anonymous: "I remember when the center table in the parlor held an immense Bible which contained the family records, locks of hair, pressed flowers, and old letters and other things placed in it for safekeeping."
