 ers pay taxes on both the grain and money be discontinued.
 The convention favored continuation of the Mail Route Graveling (Schroeder) Road Law and the present exemption law on gasoline used for agricultural purposes.
 Mr. Stander said that he would have a more complete report next week on the resolutions passed at the Farm Bureau State Convention.
 Cass County Farm Bureau was represented by: Dale Stander, Greenwood; John Rieke, Weeping Water; Mrs. Fred Wehrbein, Plattsmouth.

 Other folk from the county attending the convention were: Mrs. Dale Stander, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wall, Mrs. John Rieke, Mrs. Verner Melsinger, Mrs. Gerald Keil, Mr. Fred Wehrbein, Mr. Richard Cole, Mr. J. R. Mayfield Sr.

Nebraska Farm Bureau President Charles Marshall said, "This (Brannan) philosophy fails to recognize that all of the food dollar spent by industrial workers doesn't go to the producer of food. The farmer's share of the food dollar is so small it could be reduced by 50 percent and allow 50 percent to come from subsidy, and the consumer would still notice no difference in the price of commodities."
 He cited the example of a loaf of bread. Only one and one-half cents of the value of a 17-cent loaf of bread is wheat. A three-dollar cotton shirt contains only a few cents worth of cotton, a small part of the total cost of the shirt. The cotton could be donated by agriculture and the consumer would scarcely note a change in price.

 "The only way to guarantee a drop in consumer prices," Marshall declared, "would be to regulate the miller, the processor, the transporter, the merchant, and all of those people along the line from the farmer to the consumer. The subsidy philosophy of the Brannan plan thus becomes the opening wedge in regulation and regimentation of agriculture, industry, and business."
 "This philosophy cannot build a stronger America," the Nebraska Farm Bureau leader reasoned. "A people which seeks the security of government subsidies and pensions, and depends upon the government for the bulk of their decisions soon sacrifice the most precious of their rights and privileges—freedom. Such a philosophy ends in economic slavery—and eventually in political slavery."

Pick Strawberries December 5th

Strawberries picked from the gardens in December is rather unusual, and caused a great deal of excitement at the Marion Warthan home in this city.
 Mr. Warthan was out in the yard at his home looking over the bed of Everbearing strawberries and was surprised to see a large luscious berry, ripe and red, showing up in the midst of the plants.
 It was hard to believe that berries would be ripening here in Nebraska in the open on December 5th, but the proof was brought into the Journal.

BLUE BIRDS MEETING
 The Blue Birds held their meeting December 7th at the pine room in the Edith Solomon coffee shop. In the absence of the president, June Babcock, Carol Bridgewater, vice-president, presided.
 Roll call and dues were received. Karen Kelley, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. Pamela Wilcoxen, treasurer, gave her report.
 Two of the Blue Birds gave out the "Flame" booklet and names were drawn for secret sisters.
 There was a discussion of a number of matters and plans were drawn for the coming months.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Deale and family were Thursday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gillette.
