CAPITOL NEWS

building leaks around its terrace like an old barn. That isn't news to capitol visitors who've seen cracked plaster and bulging ceilings in first floor offices, notably the agriculture department. Last week a new group the state capitol building commission, met at the statehouse to see what could be done about it.

The commission named State Engineer F. H. Klietsch its secretary and directed him to find out whether it could hire an expert to survey the structure and list the needed repairs.

Capitol Custodian Harold Hul-fish said $100,000 already has been spent on the terrace, primarily for replacing broken tiles, at $1.15 each. Two firms have estimated it would cost $161,000 to $175,000 to waterproof the building from tower to terrace.

One suggestion was that the terrace be closed and made into a roof. Governor Peterson thought the public wouldn't hold still for that.

At the same time, the murals commission for the capitol named a committee to decide on what kind of art should be put in the empty panels along the corridor leading to the rotunda. These panels have been blank since the capitol's completion.

Other Statehouse News in a capsule:

Dr. Herbert R. Kennedy, of Omaha, was named 1950 game commission chairman, succeeding Clarke L. Wilson of Lincoln, Frank J. Brady, of Atkinson, is vice-chairman.

The next session of the legislature will be asked to consider a 40-hour week for state employees. An opinion from the attorney general's office says state law sets the work week at 44 hours. State Merit System Director Arthur Pendray says morale and efficiency would be improved with a shorter week.

An item here last week that Nebraska may have 2 Thanksgivings was unfounded. Gov. Peterson's staff rechecked the statutes and found out that the 1945 legislature put Nebraska in step with the majority of the states and congress, by designating the fourth Thursday in November instead of the last. Nebraska's anti-gambling campaign has caught up its governor. Last fall Gov. Peterson bet two bucks on the Wayne-Doane football game with Gale Welch, a Doane student. The chief executive is a Wayne alum. Peterson spoke in Crete last week and remarked that he was eligible to collect since Wayne had beat the Tigers. "In view of recent legal developments regarding gambling in Nebraska," he said, "I'm asking my opponent to donate the money to some worthy cause at Doane."

NEW SAFETY POON . . . You are looking at a demonstration of a reflecting material known as Scotch-lite which is suddenly coming into wide use as a safety item on U. S. roads. New cars may soon be built with a Scotch-lite finish. While the reflecting material has a smooth outer surface, it consists of microscopic glass beads spread in sandpaper fashion on a plastic base. Each bead has the ability to reflect headlight directly back at you instead of scattering them as do most surfaces.

Bring Schools Close to People

Nebraska's schools must be brought closer to the people by making them a service institution for the community, a University of Nebraska sociologist said Thursday.

Dr. John P. Johansen spoke before the closing day's session of the Town and Country Church conference on the University of Nebraska college of agriculture campus. He said county committees on school district reorganization have a "marvelous opportunity" to push the present school issue "down to the grass roots" and stimulate interest of the community's people.

Dr. Johansen confessed that stimulating interest in schools is an uphill job. He pointed out that about a sixth of Nebraska's elementary pupils and a third of the high school students live outside the district where they attend school.

The NU sociologist said he believes the present law in Nebraska puts the reorganization on the right track. He said school districts should be reshaped "in terms of natural community areas—with emphasis on placing schools where people trade and where they feel at home."

Dr. Johansen said a rural area should have as many schools as necessary and where the school patrons want them.

Death of Former Cass County Lady

The death of Mrs. Sherry Butler Johnson, 70, wife of John Johnson, well known telephone man, occurred a few days ago at the family home at Herman, Nebraska, where she has been ill for some time.

The family is well known here as they have been frequent visitors in this city during the residence here of their son, Harvey Johnson, a former clerk in the offices of the Burlington here. Mrs. Johnson was a daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Butler, old residents of Weeping Water and spent her younger years in that city and will be well remembered by the older residents of that place.

Herman Schwepppe, prominent resident of Murdock, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Martha, were in the city today (Monday) to look after some matters of business at the court house.

George Vogel Still Pushing Dam Plans

George Vogel of South Bend, one of the original boosters for a dam on the Platte river, was in Louisville the past week, according to the Louisville Courier, and is still enthusiastic over the creation of a water power project in that locality.

Mr. Vogel is now in favor of the placing of the dam on the Platte river nearer the town of Louisville than the first suggested site farther west on the river.

The original plans that called for a dam west of South Bend, drew the fire of the city of Ashland and Lincoln whose source of water supply is in the Ashland area, also the Burlington railroad whose lines are located in the vicinity of the proposed dam and lake. The new plans are to bring the dam nearer Louisville where it would not interfere with Ashland or the Lincoln water supply. The new plans however would still force the Burlington to move their tracks as well as the Rock Island railroad and the town of South Bend would have to be moved as it is in the path of the proposed lake formed back of the dam.

Mr. Vogel sees the dam as the source of water power for this part of the state and hopes to interest the Louisville Chamber of Commerce in the plans.

Lyle Choate Will Be on Farm Program

The second annual Pasture-Forage-Livestock conference to be held in Omaha on March 9th, will feature many interesting discussions and panels to take up the study of these problems of the farm and the farmers.

One of the speakers will be Lloyd Choate, of near Nehawka, who is engaged in operating one of the largest farms in Cass county and well known over the state for his work in the advancement of the farm work in this section. The morning panels will be moderated by Dr. Floyd Andre, dean and director of agriculture of Iowa State college. Drs. Les Hanson and J. L. Krieger of the universities of Nebraska and Illinois, will also be featured.

In addition to Mr. Choate on the farm operators' section of the panel will be Bill Yungelas, well known Webster City, Iowa, swine producer.

The meetings will be sponsored by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Land, of Union, were in the city Monday and while here called at the Journal to renew their subscription to the paper for the ensuing year.

School Board Associations To Hold Meet

Delegates and other interested citizens attending the Nebraska State School Boards association convention in Grand Island, February 7 and 8, will witness an actual school board meeting in session.

At the request of the convention committee of the association, the Grand Island board agreed to hold its monthly meeting in the large convention hall of the Yancey Hotel on Tuesday evening, February 7th. Building construction problems will be considered. Budget studies will be conducted. Opinions of the board's legal counsel will be called for, if necessary. This will not be a mock affair, but a regular official meeting of the board.

The purpose of this kind of program is to let the observers see the difference between policy making and administration. It is also felt that many board members will get new ideas of how to prepare and follow the agenda for such a meeting, and they will see the kind of reports which they should expect from their superintendents.

Other sessions of the conventions will be filled with panels by farm groups, labor organizations, taxpayers, and professional educators. The objective is to get all groups of citizens to understand the educational needs of the state and to agree on a single course of action which will be solidly backed by all.

Death of Mrs. Anna Larson

The death of Mrs. Anna Sanders Larson, 74, took place Saturday, January 21, at 8 p. m., at the Nebraska Masonic Home in this city, where she, with her husband, L. A. Larson, have made their home for the past three months.

Anna Janes Sanders was born of pioneer parents, who settled in southwest Nebraska in 1872, there being three children in the family at that time. She was born on June 9, 1875, being the first white child born in Frontier county. She grew to womanhood in the atmosphere of a pious Methodist home. She was for a number of years engaged in teaching in the public schools in the early nineties.

She was married on December 1, 1895, to L. A. Larson, they immediately establishing a home in Laws precinct of Frontier county. To this union there was born five children: Wauanata, Augustin M., John S., Lewis Alfonso and Leon Lockwood. The first two born preceding her in death; Wauanata at 19 years and Augustin a few years later at the age of 23.

She leaves to mourn her passing, her loving husband, three sons, L. A. Jr., John and Leon, all living in Oregon. Three sisters, Gertrude, of Stockville; Georgia Cline of California, and Lena Flint, of Denver.

The funeral services will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the chapel of the Caldwell funeral home, 7th street and Avenue B. The interment will be at the Masonic plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

ATTENDS FUNERAL

Father Edward C. Tucek, pastor of the Holy Rosary church in this city, was at Lindsay, Nebraska, the last of the week where he accompanied Walter H. Smith to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lena Lebens, mother of Attorney Harold Lebens of this city.

Hon. W. B. Banning, of Union, was in the city Saturday to look after some matters of business at the court house.

Relief Worker At Burlington

Henry Frey, local agent of the Burlington, has in the past week received assistance to help take care of the telegraph work and routine at the local passenger station. This was made necessary by the fact that the railroad workers are operating under a five day week and it is necessary to have an extra man take care of the Saturday business.

The new man here is C. V. Smith, of Omaha, who is a relief man at a number of the stations of the Burlington. He handles the second trick relief at Ashland, as well as the relief work at Fremont and South Omaha in addition to the Saturday assignment at the local station here.
