

Death of Mrs. George Jordan

Mrs. George Jordan, 44, who has been quite seriously ill for the past several months, passed away this (Thursday) morning at the family home, 601 Oakmont Drive.

The condition of Mrs. Jordan was critical for some time and she has been given hospitalization several times in the past year.

Venus Hilty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hilty, was born March 14, 1906 and was married on January 10, 1933 at Shelton, Nebraska, to George Jordan and has in the recent years made their home in this city.

The survivors are the husband, George; father, Edward Hilty, Lexington, Nebraska; four sisters, Winifred Sheen, Vera Gleason, Doris Hudson, Bernice Plummer, all of Lexington; two brothers, Bob Hilty of Lexington and Don Hilty of Coulee City, Washington.

The mother and one sister have preceded her in death.

The funeral will be Saturday at 2 p. m. from the Sattler funeral home, 4th street and Avenue A. Rev. E. C. Williams, officiating.

Visiting hours will be at the funeral home Friday from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p. m.

Many Attend the Talk on Cancer

A very large number of the members of the various Farm Bureau units in eastern Cass county enjoyed a very interesting and instructive lecture and movies last Friday evening at the basement of the Christ Lutheran church on the Plattsmouth-Louisville road.

This meeting was made possible by the Society for the Eradication of Cancer of which Mrs. Richard F. Brendel is the Cass county chairman. The lecture was given by Dr. Eggers of the University of Nebraska and placed before the auditors the necessity of being on the watch for this dangerous malady that yearly takes many lives.

Albert Todd showed the cancer movies through his movie projector. He also showed other movie film that he had taken throughout the west.

After the movies refreshments were served the members of the group.

ENJOYS VACATION

Miss Patricia Rogers, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. A. B. Rogers, who is a student at Lindenwood college at St. Charles, Missouri, has enjoyed a short vacation the past week. She enjoyed a plane trip from St. Louis, Missouri, to Clearlake, Iowa, where she was a guest of Miss Emily Knutson. The two young ladies are room mates at Lindenwood.

Most of the mica produced in the United States comes from the western part of North Carolina.

Methodist Nurses Capping Service

Miss Mary Margaret Cole and Miss Mildred Meisinger of this community have completed their first semester in the Nebraska Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, Omaha, Nebraska. They will receive their Nurse's Cap at a Capping Service to be held at First Methodist church, Omaha, February 9, at 8:00 p. m. A reception honoring the class will be held in the church parlors following the service.

A class of thirty-six students will receive their caps at this time.

field goals, bringing the score 29 to 20 for the Blue Devils.

In the final most of the scoring for the Blue Devils was in the free throw column. Dan Rohan, forward of the locals, shot one from the court and also a free toss. Dasher garnered two free tosses as did McCormick. Cole also added a gift shot to bring the scoring for the locals at an end. Nicholson for Blair made a field goal, while Menking added two field goals and two free throws to his credit. Peterson a free shot. The game ended 37 to 29.

In the curtain raiser the Plattsmouth reserves were the winners by the score of 42 to 32. The box score of the game was as follows:

Nebraska Youth Winter Institute

LINCOLN—More than 100 Nebraska youths from 18 counties are expected at the University of Nebraska Friday and Saturday, February 3 and 4 for the Nebraska Rural Youth Mid-winter Institute.

Guy Davis, state Rural Youth leader at the university, said a full two-days' session is planned as a conference and training period for local organization officers. Only two formal addresses are planned. Verlin Livingston, Sidney, the state organization president, will talk at 9:30 p. m. on Saturday and Dr. F. D. Keim, head of the university's agronomy department, will talk on the same day at 1:30.

Officers training on the first day will be in charge of Edward Wagner, Winnetoon, state president. Program planning discussions will be headed by Pepper Martin, Scottsbluff, state news reporter; financing discussion, headed by Norman Gerkenmeyer, Seward, state treasurer; constitution and re-districting discussion, headed by Kenwood Anderson, Dalton, state president; and Rural Youth problems, discussion, headed by Virginia Mae Wittler, Hartington, state secretary.

The Rural Youth members will be welcomed by H. G. Gould, associate director of the University of Nebraska Agricultural Extension Service at 10 a. m. on Friday. Group singing will be under the direction of Mrs. Altinas Tullis, ag college choral director.

Rosborough Funeral Held Wednesday

Funeral services for the late W. M. Rosborough were held on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Chain & Wood mortuary at Seward, Nebraska, with a large number of old friends and associates in attendance.

The services were in charge of Oliver lodge No. 38 A. F. & A. M. of Seward, of which Mr. Rosborough was a past master and a member for some sixty-eight years. Mr. Rosborough, 91, was also honored with the Jordan medal for his long service as a member of the fraternity.

Attending the funeral from Plattsmouth were a son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rosborough, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hansen, parents of Mrs. Rosborough.

The oldest apple tree in Washington State was planted at Vancouver in 1670.

Rotary Hears Story of the Burlington

they building log homes and inducing many others to come to this place to help establish homes. Later as time progressed, the railroads came west, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad extending their lines from Illinois into Iowa and eventually came to the banks of the mighty Missouri river, opposite Plattsmouth and from here the westward march of the rail traffic gradually grew. The establishment of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad in Nebraska followed in a few years and in Plattsmouth was built the first shops of the "B & M". In the seventies they being frame buildings located south of the present Burlington passenger station, remaining there for several years until destroyed by fire when the present brick buildings were built in their present locations farther south.

In the year 1879 the Burlington started the erection of the railroad bridge that stood for many years until the present structure was built in 1901 and now serves the main line of the Burlington. From here the line of the Burlington was built westward along the south bank of the Platte river to Lincoln in the westward march of the "iron horse." A line was built into Omaha the then growing metropolis of the state, the lines joining at Oreapolis.

The shops at Plattsmouth had the distinction of building the second locomotive in use on the road, the "35", as it was designated, was completed and placed in service here. It is still preserved among the historic trophies of the railroad and was shown at the Railroad Fair in Chicago.

The wonderful story of the progress of railroading would not have been complete without the information that the general offices of the "B & M" had been located in Plattsmouth and remained until the late seventies when they were moved to Omaha. For many years the secretary of the Burlington came to Plattsmouth from the east to hold the annual meeting at the local Burlington shop office.

The address was one filled from start to close with the greatest interest and gave many a much more illuminating insight into the story of Plattsmouth and the Burlington.

Mr. Kuska in his address spoke of many of the early leaders in the Burlington who were formerly well known here to the early day residents Charles E. Perkins, president of the Burlington, in whose honor the Perkins House in this city was named, George W. Holdrege, general manager of the Burlington, for many years a resident here, living in a home on high school hill, Byron Clark, attorney for the railroad, who made his home here for many years and E. F. Ernst, treasurer of the Burlington who was known to many Plattsmouth people.

Death of Aged Lady Wednesday

The death of Mrs. Mary Jane Mallory, 91, occurred on Wednesday evening at the Nebraska Masonic Home where she has been a resident since November 18, 1944.

The deceased was a daughter of James and Jane Lowe and was born at Westfield, Wisconsin, November 1, 1858, spending her younger years in that section. She was married there to Mark E. Mallory. The family came to Nebraska a great many years ago and located at Plainview and Tecumseh, Nebraska, they being engaged in the hotel business there for a number of years. On retiring from active business life, they moved to Des Moines, Iowa, where they resided with a daughter, Mrs. M. H. Newgard, and while there, the husband was fatally injured in an automobile accident. The wife came here in 1944 to make her home. She was quite active in the Eastern Star at her former home.

The body was taken to the Caldwell funeral home at 7th and Avenue B and will be taken later to Plainview, Nebraska, for the services and interment beside the husband.

Mrs. Newgard, the daughter, arrived this (Thursday) morning to accompany the body to the last resting place.

FIRE STRIKES AT HOME

SEATTLE, Wash. (U.P.)—Mrs. William A. Smith asked her husband to give their five-year-old son Dennis a talking to after he set fire to his bedroom. Smith felt he was qualified to lecture the lad on the dangers of playing with matches. He's a fireman.

We Can Make IT EASIER

It is the hour of affliction it is a great strain to think of practical things, but it is easier if those you talk with bring a sympathetic understanding to the discussion of final arrangements.

It is only natural that we who are accustomed to serve at life's most solemn occasion should have learned at least how to make the preliminary talk about it a little easier.
