EUGENE D. O'SULLIVAN IS YOUR FRIEND. HERE IS HOW HE VOTED

O'Sullivan Voted For Rural Electrification

O'Sullivan Voted To Restore The Grain Loan Law, After His Present Opponent Helped To Repeal It.

Compare This With His Opponent's Record: Mr. Buffet Voted As Follows:

On March 4, 1947, he voted against a bill to extend the farm labor supply program to Dec. 31. It passed 243 to 110, with most Republicans favoring it.

On May 26 he helped to defeat an attempt to restore $165,000,000.00 in farm funds to the agriculture bill. It lost by six votes.

On June 16 he helped to defeat the wool protection bill in the same manner.

On Feb. 14, 1948, he helped defeat an appropriation of 300 million dollars for rural electrification.

He has shown his dislike for the Missouri river development and on several occasions has voted against appropriations for development of various river basins.

In the 79th Congress he was one of the 16 congressmen, including only six republicans who voted against reviving federal crop insurance. There were 265 favorable votes.

He has constantly voted against the farmers welfare.
