SOFT WATER HELPS PROTECT YOUR FAMILY FROM BACTERIAL INFECTIONS

Research scientists have shown that hard water curd which forms on dishes, utensils and clothes can harbor dangerous bacteria and protect these from the action of soap and other disinfectants. With the use of soft water, no curd can form to provide a hiding place for bacteria. Your washings are more thorough, your rinsings more complete and the result more sanitary. ## "A Hundred Fold"

The last week in May, 1950, Harold Schliefert, near Manley, Nebr., planted almost a bu. of Pool's Nebr. Certified medium flat Nebr. 701 on 7 1/2 acres of measured ground. In November he picked this, and cribbed it separately. He reports that he likes the way it planted, picked, & shelled, for in January he shelled and weighed it. The 7 1/2 acres yielded 97 bu. per acre, 18% moisture, in a season that was wet and late.

A number of similar yields have been reported in recent years, but seldom are checked as accurately as this one.

Mr. Schliefert bought his seed from H. G. Arends, of Manley. You too, can get POOL'S CERTIFIED HYBRIDS from ARENDS, or RICHARD COLE, PLATTSMOUTH, DWIGHT BAIER, AVOCA, LEWIS CALLAWAY, UNADILLA, CLIFF ANDERSON, EAGLE, BOB WALL, GREENWOOD, or direct from us.

JOURNALISMS

Half the people of the country today have the jitters. Most of them don't know whether to or not to. It doesn't make much difference what the proposition is—buying a car, buying a bond, or building a house. Should they do it now, or should they wait. The future for the average person appears bleak. People hand over their hearts with confidence in leadership—and you can hardly blame them with some of the goings on in high places—Harry Vaughn's deep freezes—Mrs. Young's mink coat—vacations in Florida—and a dozen others. Have we sold out to a gang of racketeers?

We hardly think so. We've just been a little lax with the "gimmies" for the past few years and too busy making dollars and cents to have time to wrap up in our own selfish interests that we failed to keep a weather eye on the boys who have been running the show. We're all guilty—you and I, Congressmen, Senators, State Legislators and the man on the street. We've been so tied up accepting handouts we failed to see the other guy was getting two to our one.

They're running down the curtain on the big show. Take your last look at the screwiest, zaniest, most gosh-awful period in American history. There's been an awakening among the peasants—even old-line Democrats are crying enough. It's encouraging to see the makings of great statesmen again; men in congress and in our state legislature striking the gong for right and the people's due. Out of this mess will come great leadership, sound policies beckoning with the brightest future for humans on the face of the earth—that's American Democracy. You can't whip a free people in a free world.

Our apologies to Dick Young, owner of Plattsmouth's Culligan Soft Water Service, for an error in his ad appearing in Monday's Journal. Most of our printers and operators can read and write and the proof readers are not blind, but in spite of painstaking checks, errors crop up in the most unexpected places. For some unaccountable reason a printer picked up the wrong figures from a type case, which happens frequently in the rush of compiling a newspaper, and the proof-reader missed the error, which happens less frequently.

It all added up to a glaring misprint that caused Young considerable embarrassment from many of his regular customers, which proves conclusively that people do read The Journal. You'll find the ad as she should appear on another page of this issue. Dick was as gentle in calling our attention to the misprint as his soft water service will be to you.

It's a great business, this newspaper business. It's hell if you do and more hell if you don't. We don't know how newspapers got into the world and we don't think the Good Lord does, for there is nothing said about them in the Bible. Personally we think an editor is the missing link we read of. He must have stayed in the business until after the big flood, came off the Ark and wrote the thing up. At any rate, he's been in the business ever since.

If we make a mistake people rarely say we ought to be hung. If a doctor makes a mistake he buries it and people don't say anything because they can't read Latin. When the editor makes mistakes there is an apology or a big lawsuit and swearing, but if the doctor makes one, there is a funeral with flowers and great silence.

A doctor can use a word a yard long without him or anyone else knowing what it means, but if we use one, we have to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit, but if the editor goes he'll probably get a charge of buckshot. Any college can make the average doctor, lawyer, druggist, or what have you, but editors have to be born. Surely no man would study to be one.

Digging around in some old files here this week we came across a play titled "Turn of the Tide" or "Wrecked in Port," a temperance drama, formerly the property of Omer Yardley, who played the part of a pirate in this great old "meleodrama" set in the period of 1879. Other members of the cast, included Lloyd Lewis, Will Seybold, Joe Creamer, Wayne Lewis, Chas. Valley, Frank Dugby, Bessie E. Lela V., Mae Lewis and Vera Yardley, the latter called "Frisky," and it says here "with no one to love."

Space will not permit us going into the terrifying details of this shocker, but our next column will cover a synopsis of this great theatrical effort which may be one of the reasons Plattsmouth doesn't have an auditorium to this day. In the meantime, can some reader tip us off to who is Bessie E. and Lela V.?

Oats In East Need Nitrogen

LINCOLN—Oats grown in the eastern half of Nebraska will usually respond to nitrogen fertilizer, according to a recent publication by the University of Nebraska agronomy department. The publication lists the results of fertilizers on oats from the outstate testing project conducted in 1950. The agronomists, G. W. Lowery, R. A. Olson and A. F. Dreier, who compiled the circular, said oats grown on the major soils of northeastern and southeastern Nebraska normally will respond to available phosphate applications.

Plant height and crude protein content of the grain were increased by the application of commercial nitrogen fertilizers. Potassium apparently is not deficient for oat production.

Thirty to forty pounds per acre have given a substantial yield increase over that when 20 pounds were used. Sixty pounds has proved more than needed other than for seeking maximum protein yield or for counteracting attacks by pests.

Where oats have been used as a nurse crop for a legume, applications of nitrogen exceeding 20 pounds per acre have been responsible for reduced stands and limited early growth of the alfalfa or sweet clover.

Complete details on the experiments are contained in Outstate Testing Circular 13, available at the offices of county agents.
