Easter Seal Sale To End March 25

The 1951 Easter seal sale for the benefit of crippled children, now on, will continue until Sunday, March 25.

This year's green and magenta seal shows a little girl on crutches, reaching up to grasp a helping adult hand. One corner bears the caption: "Help Crippled Children."

More than 200,000 appeal letters with sheets of Easter seals enclosed, were put into the mail this week for Nebraska residents. The mailing was done with volunteer help, from Omaha headquarters.

Pleading for more generous gifts to the fund this year, W. O. Swanson, president of the Nebraska Society for Crippled Children, stressed higher costs for service and an increase in the number of children to be helped.

few garden tools, seeds and maybe some special lawn equipment. And they'll be able to buy them here at greatly reduced costs.

It's a time to check with dealers about remodeling the house and making plans for general repairs to all the buildings. Redecorating may be on tap for many residents of the vicinity and they'll appreciate this opportunity to acquire the necessary materials.

And if they aren't planning repairs, maybe the thought will be to start something new. Local business men have taken these things into account and have planned this annual "Spring Opening" to give their customers the opportunity of completing their plans and fulfilling their desires at costs far below those anticipated.

The Plattsmouth Journal carries in the advertising of its patrons, many of the suggestions for spring, and answers to many of the questions that residents of the community are asking themselves as the spring period moves closer.

The recent stroke of winter hasn't dampened the enthusiasm of Plattsmouth business men as they look forward to the "Spring Opening" and they'll guarantee that spring can't be far away.

The message was brief, but stated that the baby weighed six pounds and that the mother and baby are doing fine.

Stocking Deadline For Fish March 15

The deadline for the receipt of all applications for spring stocking of warm water fish is April 15. Glen Foster, supervisor of fisheries, said any applications received at the Game Commission office after that date will not be filled until fall.

The actual stocking of the warm water species will begin shortly after the 15th. Foster mentioned that very few adult crappie will be available for spring stocking. There will be, however, sufficient numbers of fingerling bass, bluegill and bullheads available.

As reported last year, the Game Commission will not supply fish for any fishing contests during 1951. The Game Commission hopes to rebuild the bullhead population in the sand hills so that in future years, more adult-sized bullheads will be available for kids' fishing contests.
