

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER
The Jerusalem Road
Lesson: Mark 10: 35-45
Memory Selection: Mark 10: 43

WHEN JAMES AND JOHN came, seeking chief places in the kingdom when Jesus should sit on the throne of his glory, and had vowed their willingness and ability to drink of the cup that Jesus should drink, he told them that it was not his to give such high place but it would be given to those for whom it had been prepared.

When the other disciples heard the selfish and ambitious request of James and John as they tried to put one "over them," they were moved with indignation against the two brethren. And they resented the effort of the two, not because it was wrong, but because that effort would supersede the 10. On their very way to Jerusalem the disciples were still evidently under the delusion that Jesus would set up a great earthly kingdom, and they all alike desired to have chief places in it.

Jesus told that true greatness comes not in securing and in having but in being and in doing. High places are given those who become great servants of their fellows. And they who render sacrificial service have the example of Jesus before them. "For the son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." So may we find in Jesus, who gave himself freely for men, our example of fine and unselfish service in all the opportunities that come to us.

strange god. I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt." (Psalms 31:9, 10). Other Bible citations include, "Among the gods there is none like unto thee, O Lord, neither are there any works like unto thy works. All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord: and shall glorify thy name. For thou art great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone." (Psalms 86:8-10).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, "In the infinitude of Mind, matter must be unknown." (Page 280).

New Fertilizers Circular Available

LINCOLN—A new circular on general fertilizer recommendations on irrigated land in Nebraska is off the press at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. Authors are M. D. Weldon and W. R. Ringler, extension soils specialists at the university.
The circular (C. C. 108) gives general fertilizer recommendations for most crops raised under irrigation. The amounts of nitrogen or phosphate the farmer should apply to the various crops for maximum yields are given.
The specialists advise that farmers trying commercial fertilizers for the first time should place an unfertilized strip a rod or two wide in the middle of the field. That's to observe by direct comparison whether it pays to use the fertilizer.

ROAD REALLY BURNED UP

MAGNA, Utah—Firemen were skeptical when someone called and said a street was on fire. It was true though. Flames 10 to 15 feet high were shooting up from the macadamized roadway. The department attributed the blaze to overflowing gasoline from somebody's tank.

IN HARVARD AT 14
CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Fourteen-year-old Alexander M. McColl of Kalamazoo, Mich., is a member of the fall freshman class at Harvard College. The freshman says he owes his rapid advancement to the patience and understanding of the headmaster at the Penn Charter School of Philadelphia, and to the private tutoring of his mother.

INGENUITY UNAPPRECIATED
CEBU CITY, Philippines—The Cebu post office ran out of two-cent stamps. But it had plenty of four-cent stamps, so the postmaster cut the four-centers in half and sold the halves as two-cent stamps. The solution displeased the director of posts, who suspended the postmaster.
