"Buddy Poppies" Will Go On Sale In Plattsmouth, Saturday, May 26

Volunteer workers among the women of Plattsmouth will begin selling "Buddy Poppies" early Saturday morning for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsors of "Buddy Poppy Day."

The poppies, made by disabled veterans throughout the United States, will be sold throughout the day Saturday.

Bob Willis, commander of the local V. F. W. post, urges residents of the community to remember the disabled veterans of past wars by contributing any amount to the sale of poppies.

To be well dressed Saturday, one should display a poppy, Willis declared.

The Plattsmouth volunteer workers will locally take the place of Movie Star Virginia Mayo, who has been selected by Veterans of Foreign Wars to serve as National Buddy Poppy Girl for 1951.

Many families of veterans, forced to subsist on pensions, are being hard hit by the present high cost of food, clothing and shelter, Willis said. "That is why the success of our 1951 Buddy Poppy sale is more deserving of the support of patriotic citizens of this community than ever before."

Money to be raised through the sale of Buddy Poppies will be used exclusively for the welfare of veterans and their dependents. "When Buddy Poppy

Virginia Mayo

Day is over in Plattsmouth, I hope that every man, woman and child will be wearing one of these symbols of our gratitude to the men who have served their country in time of war, with honor to themselves and to our great nation."

The present war in Korea adds another element to the sale of poppies. For every day, many American servicemen are joining the ranks of disabled veterans. As the need grows, the sale of poppies must be greater. Many business men in Plattsmouth are also urging support of "Buddy Poppy Day."

Commissioners Determine Cass Co. Population

Cass county will remain in Class 4-A, and Cass county officials will continue to draw the same salaries. That was the decision by the Cass county commissioners meeting in executive session following a hearing Tuesday morning.

Board Chairman Wm. F. Nolte discussed shortly afternoon Tuesday that the board voted to go along with the current classification and therefore insures county officials of the same salaries.

Class 4-A includes counties whose population is determined to be more than 15,000 but less than 20,000. The discrepancy arose when U. S. official census figures gave Cass county only a population of 16,361 in 1950.

But at the hearing Tuesday, Judge Raymond J. Case, spokesman for the county officials, introduced evidence which would give the county a legal residential population of 16,577.

Case pointed out that university and college students, hospital and institutional inmates, with legal residence in Cass county, were not included in the 1950 census.

He exhibited letters from the University of Nebraska, Peru State Teachers' College, Doane College, and Nebraska Wesleyan, which listed 146 Cass county students enrolled at the four colleges during the period from March 1 to May 31, 1950. In addition 70 patients in the state institutions were also listed by Case.

Case had as one of the witnesses at the hearing, Mrs. Elaine Casey, Cass county census officer for the 1950 census. She explained that only actual residents were counted during the 1950 census, and that anyone living outside of Cass county during the period were not counted in the census here.

The state law, which provides for salaries to county officials, states that county commissioners shall determine the county population, using such information as appears to be pertinent.
