The Golden Hekt is: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." (Genesis 1:1) Other Bible citations include: "Happy is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, whose hope is in the Lord his God: Which made heaven, and earth, the sea, and all that therein is: which keepeth truth for ever." (Psalms 146:5, 6).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spiritually to understand that there is but one creator, God, unfolds all creation, confirms the Scriptures, brings the sweet assurance of no pain, no pain, and of man deathless and perfect and eternal." REV. ROBERT H. HARPER
Notes' Charge to the People
Lesson for December 9: Deuteronomy: 15-31; 33: 28-29
Memory Selection: Deuteronomy 33: 27

THE LESSON TEXT is found among the farewell addresses of Moses. The grand old man, having led his people out of Egyptian bondage and after forty years brought them to a distant view of the Land of Promise, when he felt and knew his work was done, gathered the tribes, as it were, to his feet and gave them the benefit of the experience that had been his through an hundred and twenty years.

He set before the people a blessing and a curse—a blessing that would be theirs if they should follow Jehovah's leading, and a curse if they should depart from Jehovah to serve other gods.

But he closed with the stirring assurance of the Lord's blessings upon them if they would do his will. The eternal God would be their dwelling place and underneath would be the everlasting arms. Many believe that the last thing Moses ever wrote was the 90th Psalm which begins with words that have the sound of stately music—"Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations."
These words remind us of the assurance of Moses to his people when he delivered his farewell addresses. These messages evidently came out of his own experience. When Mozart was dying, his fellow musicians played for him his favorite music. Moses was ready to die in the thought of God.
