Music Week Is Noted At Union Woman's Club Meet

On last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. D. Ray Frans entertained the Union Woman's Club and several other guests. In observance of music week, Mrs. Richard Schanot, the leader for the afternoon and Mrs. Frans had invited Mrs. Dan Bunting of Omaha (Rue Ann Frans) to entertain the guests. Her pianist was Miss Janicek, also of Omaha. Mrs. Bunting's first group of songs were "All Through the Night," "The Ash Grove," "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Coming Through the Rye." Another group included "Symphony in Yellow," "Music I Heard With You," "Five Eyes," "Now Like a Lantern" and "Animal Crackers." The third group was "Summer Time," "Naughty Marietta," "One Kiss" and "Three Loves." Mrs. Bunting gave two encores and her pianist also gave several piano solos, which showed what an outstanding musician she was. The hostesses with her assistants, served dainty refreshments. The invited guests were Miss Norma Polzey, a surgical nurse from the Methodist hospital at Omaha, Mrs. George Stites, Mrs. Wayne Scoles, Mrs. Myrtle Kendall and Mrs. Myrtle Cross of California.

School Closes But Picnic Is Forced Indoors

The Union schools closed on last Wednesday and on Friday a picnic had been planned to be held in the park, but the weather man was not picnic minded, so plans had to be changed. The picnic was held in the Legion hall. There was a fine attendance and the tables groaned as the food kept coming. At least every one had all they could eat and as a final treat loads of ice cream was served. So another school year is gone and teachers and students must part and go their separate ways.

— Union —
Mrs. Emma Willis was the honor guest at home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Valley at Plattsmouth, honoring her on Mother's Day. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Becker were also guests from Union.

Flowers from Old Nylons
Remove color from old nylons with a color remover that requires no boiling.

Dye stockings in desired colors using an all purpose dye that will dye nylon. Dye some of the nylon green for leaves.

After drying, cut the stockings into 3 to 5 inch squares.

Cut fine copper wire into desired short lengths. Copper screening may be unraveled and used as the wire.

Flower petals or leaves are made by folding a square of dyed nylon over the wire and forming it into any shape you like. Wire may be shaped over a bottle or round a stick of wood to keep size uniform.

Spools of different sizes with one end cut off are convenient. Gather the stretched out fabric at the bottom and fasten it with wire. Pine wire may be obtained from old extension cords. Leave part of the wires for the stem. Trim off extra fabric. This makes one petal.

Repeat this process until you have five or more petals then make the leaves in the same way.

Centers or stems for the blossoms may be purchased at variety stores or may be made by dipping heavy colored crocheted cotton into paraffin. Cut as many pieces of the stiffened thread as you need for stems and tie a knot at the end of each. Another method to make centers is to roll a small ball of the nylon fabric covering it with a large piece.

Make the flower by placing petals around center and tying them with wire or thread. The wires may be covered with green floral tape. Use three or four flowers and two or three leaves to make a corsage.
