REPORT

Almost 150 years ago Talleyrand said to his chief, Napoleon Bonaparte, "You can do anything with bayonets, sir, except sit on them." With sly humor, Talleyrand outlined a time-tested truth. Nations that make vast war preparations go to war. War machines, once created, have not stood still.

Americans must hope, work and pray that before it is too late we will come to our senses. For God is not mocked. The same moral laws operate today that ended past military empires. God does not change his rules to protect an erring people.

What causes this concern? America is engaged in the most colossal war preparation in history. Military detachments from 41 different countries are in training in America. Never before has a nation brought task forces from so many lands to prepare for war.

The War Department recently reported these nations have military forces training in the United States:
Belgium; Luxembourg; Brazil; Canada; Nationalist Government; Republic of China; Denmark; France; Great Britain; Greece; Indonesia; Iran; Italy; Mexico; Netherlands; Norway; Philippines; Portugal; Saudi Arabia; Spain; Thailand; Turkey; Argentina; Australia; Bolivia; Chile; Colombia; Cuba; Ecuador; Egypt; El Salvador; Guatemala; Haiti; India; Lebanon; Pakistan; Paraguay; Peru; Uruguay; Venezuela; Switzerland.

But that is not all. We have military training forces in 19 different foreign countries. Also we have large or small armies in various nations. We have reportedly 300 or so military bases abroad. Also we have military assistance advisory groups stationed in 18 countries.

Our military spending this year is at the rate of over one billion dollars a week. We spend for war purposes every ten days as much as we used to spend in an entire year. This fact alone proves our World War II crusade "to end war" was vain and futile. Global war plans spell national destruction, not national defense.

STEEL STRIKE COST
While it will be impossible to estimate its actual cost, the recent steel strike is estimated to have cost the nation a total of $4,000,000,000 in lost steel production and lost wages in the steel plants and in other allied industries.

Home Freezing Suggestions Are Told Housewives

Here is some advice on making home freezing as practical and economical as possible.

Dr. Josephine Brooks of the University of Nebraska home economics department says:

The quality of the food to be frozen should be high. Frozen food can be no better than the fresh food you use for freezing.

Proper freezing procedures from recognized sources should always be used if the quality of the frozen food is to remain high.

The food should be frozen in packages of the right amount for the size of your family. A package of frozen fruit for example must be used at one time or it will lose its quality if kept over for the next meal.

There should be a good "circulation" of foods in and out of the freezer. As vegetables and fruits are used up the space left vacant may be filled with various pastries, poultry and other meats for winter and spring use.

The freezer should always be maintained at the proper temperature so that frozen foods will not be allowed to thaw.
