Gas Company Protests Supply To Allied Plant

Satisfactory progress of plans for the Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation for the huge nitrogen plant near Plattsburgh has been reported by F. T. Tebeter, executive vice president of the company's nitrogen division.

Tebeter said the goal of the Nebraska plant which will manufacture urea products for animal feed and fertilizer, will be to satisfy the requirement of the immediate area.

Walt Colvin, western sales manager, said the company is ready to begin construction just as soon as the Federal Power Commission approves its contract with the Northern Natural Gas Company.

Meanwhile the Central Electric and Gas Company of Lincoln announced that it has filed notice of intervention with the Federal Power Commission on the Northern request to furnish 12-million cubic feet of gas daily to the Allied plant.

H. A. Thorson of Lincoln, district manager of Central Electric, said the reason for intervening is the shortage of natural gas in the Lincoln area.

He said, "Until Northern Natural has satisfied our needs here in Lincoln and the other communities and services, it should not be taking on this extra responsibility." He said he had no objection to supplying the plant with interruptible service.

Northern and Allied executed a contract in April agreeing for supply of a maximum of 12-million cubic feet of gas daily for a 20-year period.

Central Electric and Gas Co. serves Plattsburgh.

John Frady, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wetenkamp and children, returned home Tuesday from Pinedale, Wyoming, where they had been on a vacation trip for the past two weeks.

More than 14,000 electric locomotives operate underground in U. S. bituminous coal mines.

Extra Trucks To Haul Rock For City Roads

Authority has been granted to Howard Hinz, chairman of the streets, alleys and bridges committee to hire extra trucks and help to haul rock to bad spots on city roads.

Hinz told councilmen that the one city truck is in too great a demand to use it entirely for hauling rock. By obtaining additional help, Hinz explained that many of the hazardous road conditions existing in the city can be more rapidly remedied.

Mack's Kitchen To Celebrate First Anniversary Here

"How many hamburgers will a busy lunch stand serve during one year?"

That's a question which Mack's Kitchen, corner of 6th and First Avenue is asking this week as the eating establishment notes its first anniversary.

Al McClanahan, proprietor of the little black and white diner, is offering a $10 prize for the best guess as part of the first anniversary celebration.

In extending his thanks to patrons through the past year, he is also offering special week end bargains.

New Check-Out Counters Added At Hinky-Dinky

To facilitate more rapid check outs, new check out counters and grocery carts have been installed at Hinky-Dinky Store at Plattsburgh.

The change was started Sunday and is marked by continual changes this week. New counters provide space into which grocery carts may be pushed and from which checkers can operate without transferring food baskets. More spacious carts are also provided.

At the Hinky-Dinky store, Curley Conklin is operating the meat counter this week following the illness of Herb Baumgart, butcher. Baumgart has been confined to his home with a high fever. He is not expected back to work until next week.
