Obituary Of Adolph John George Schwartz

Adolph John George Schwartz, son of John and Christina Coop Schwartz, was born on a farm near Nehawka, Nebraska, January 25, 1886, and died at Nehawka September 28, 1952, aged 66 years, 8 months and 3 days.

Adolph (or "Otto") as he came to be known by his friends grew up on his father's farm northwest of Nehawka, attending district school at the Schwartz school house near his home.

On January 28, 1908, he married Pearl Kershaw, and they lived first at Manderson, Wyo., returning to Nehawka to farming until 1919, then moving to a farm near Merna, Nebr.

To them were born a daughter, Margaret, who, with his wife preceded him in death, and three sons, Walter, Russell and LeRoy, all of Worland, Wyoming, who with eleven grandchildren and two great grandchildren, survive him. Also surviving is his sister, Christina Schwartz Chappell of Nehawka, Nebr., his parents and his brothers, Henry and Walter, and his sisters, Henrietta and Margaret, having gone before.

After the death of his wife in 1938, he came back to Nehawka to live with his brother, Henry, and worked here as a carpenter until his death.

He was a member of the Methodist church, and at one time a member of the Woodman Lodge.

Adolph got perhaps his chief enjoyment out of hunting. He was a great hunter and a lover of guns. As a young man at Nehawka, he was always the captain of wolf hunts, an excellent commander liked by all.

Adolph John George Schwartz was a straightforward, kindly man. Wherever he lived he made many friends and now leaves many to mourn him.
