These gifts, Rev. Morris explained were but two of the many which have been combined to complete the remodeling and addition. Total cost of the organ and all improvements is about $7.500, according to Rev. Morris, however some grounds and basement improvements must still be taken care of. Reviewing remodeling procedure, Rev. Morris explains that at a congregational meeting, it was decided to set aside $2,000 from the Latta legacy for remodeling the chancel and purchasing an organ. However a desire for even better materials promoted contributions from church members. He especially sites Elmer Tritsch, president of the board of trustees, for his part in bolstering the remodeling program. Much of the church remodeling was done by church
