(I Kings 8:23). Other Bible citations include: "I will extol thee, my God O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever." The Lord is good to all; and his tender mercies are over all his works. All thy works shall praise thee, O Lord; and thy saints shall bless thee." (Psalms 145:1, 9, 10).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God. The great I am, the all-knowing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving, and eternal; Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit; Life; Truth; Love; all substance; intelligence." (Page 587).

Bible Comment:

Paul Ministered to The Thessalonians In Their Churches

AMONG the sources of information describing the Apostle Paul's visit to the Thessalonians, and his founding of a church there, are two outstanding Epistles. They are vital if we are to complete the story.
Linked with the Acts, the two Epistles throw a great deal of light on the nature and method of Paul's ministry. Also illustrated for us are the conditions under which Paul founded his churches. The character of their membership is revealed. We also can determine their duration and their problems.

Paul's many enemies tried to get him in trouble with the Roman authorities by accusing him of saying there was a non-Roman king, one Jesus.
These enemies were so successful that Paul and Silas had to escape for the time being. Jason, their host, had to give evidence of his security to the authorities.

The membership of the church in Thessalonica seems to have consisted of the most part, of Greeks and women. The same was true of a neighboring church at Berea, although men there are specifically mentioned in the texts.
Some Jews also joined the Christian group, but the preponderance of Gentiles may have accounted for some of the strange problems which arise in the church.

In the group of newly formed Christians there were evidently some elders and loafers who were probably drawn into the group when they heard that the Christians taught that one should share what he had with his neighbor and help him as much as possible.

Paul, who plainly stated that he who does not work should not eat, stressed this fact that he supported himself.

Just how he managed to support himself on his travels and while working in his ministry is not clear.

But Paul was a superman!
