Termites Are Danger To Home

Termite infestation in homes and store buildings here is hard to believe until you get at the root of the problem, according to Wm. Spradlin, who today announced a free inspection service.

Operator of Bill's Pest Control, Spradlin explained that several homes and buildings here have already been treated for termites. The cost to the home owner in termite damage is annually very great, Spradlin explained.

Spradlin is offering a special price for a limited time in treating homes for termite control. The service, he explains, is guaranteed and fully insured.

SPORTS

Gridders To Toil Harder During Coming Week

Plattsmouth high school grid- candidates will go into their second week of training today, as they prepare for that home opener with Auburn on September 11, only two weeks away. And, they can expect the tempo of the training grind to be stepped up.

Grid Mentor Gerald Clayburn, in his first year at the helm, has scheduled a heavy workout this afternoon and will go into regular after-school practice sessions on Tuesday. The grid- driers will probably also see some night practice sessions.

And with that opener on the horizon, Clayburn has indicated that heavy scrimmage will be a part of this week's grid drills. Polishing plays, blocking and tackling, passing drills, and more running are on this week's training chart.

Satisfied with the squad thus far, Clayburn has indicated that every possible opportunity will be utilized in the coming two weeks.

The gridders ended one week of drilling Friday afternoon.

Drum-Bugle Corps Slates Practice Session Tonight

A second practice session for the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps has been set for tonight, Monday. The drum- mers and buglers are to meet at the 40 & 8 club at eight o'clock.

Drummers and Buglers are still needed to bring the corps up to desired strength. Commander Russ Nielsen of the American Legion issued a reminder today that all veterans are eligible for membership in the corps.

The week's drills were primarily conditional with some contact work thrown in. Two-day sessions were enforced during the past week but with the opening of school will be cut back to one.

Aided by Assistant Coach Eugene Shields and Athletic Director Merle Stewart, Clayburn has pushed the high school grid- driers in the morning sessions, but slacked off during the afternoon. Generally the gridders have been rounding into condition well, despite the heat under which they have been sweating.

But some time has been utilized for "skull practice." Clayburn took one afternoon to run over play assignments with the Devils and to acquaint them with some new plays. For some assignments will be changed considerably.

Clayburn is also expecting a few additional candidates to report this afternoon. With school now open, the high school boys will be able to apply more time to the city's best loved sport.

A sixteen pound 32-inch blue catfish was landed in a sandpit north of Plattsmouth Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Tom Solomon. Game Warden Bernard Patton was on hand to measure and weigh the fish.

Solomon said the fish was caught on a "jug" line with worms being used as bait. "Jug" fishing is described as "fishing with a line which is weighed down with a weight and a glass jug or bobber as a float."

Bill Cunningham, state game enforcement office, said each licensed fisherman is allowed to use two "jug" lines with two hooks per line in any lake which is not state owned.
