The Mechanics overcame a 90 pin handicap as Bob McClanahan, Cliff Meisinger and George Winscot set the pin pace. L. Shrimpton and Cliff Kennell led the losers.

Cheap Feed Can't Be Good... Good Feed Can't Be Cheap

A good manager never buys the cheapest feed he can find. He doesn't consider the price per bag but the cost to produce a pound of meat or a dozen eggs.

There is only one right way to feed commercial feed to get the best results and that is the way the manufacturer prescribes.

The individual who thinks he knows better how to feed a bag of feed than the manufacturer does is taking the long and expensive road to profit. A bag of feed cannot perform miracles.

Good feed, good management and cleanliness must go together to get the most profit. Aim at a high market. July to September for pork, July through December for eggs.

Devils Await Tourney Bid At Auburn

Coach Merle Stewart's Plattsmouth Blue Devils will head for Auburn Wednesday evening with an eye on a hoped-for trip to the Nebraska State Class B Basketball tournament at Lincoln. The Devils will open their campaign for the state trip against Wymore in the nightcap of a twin-bill in Wednesday night's district tournament. Tecumseh will meet St. Joe of Omaha in the seven o'clock opener.

Holy Name and Pawnee City open play in the tournament Tuesday night with Bellevue and Auburn slated for action the same night. Winners in the Tuesday night and Wednesday games will meet in the semi-finals Thursday night, with the finals and state entry to be decided Friday night.

One of the seedee teams in the Auburn tourney, Plattsmouth will be favored to stop the Wymore quintet, although the Gave county crew has shown potential upset possibilities. Tecumseh and Holy Name are other favored teams in the meet.

Stewart will probably go along with the same five that has started for Plattsmouth through out the season. That'll find Jon Schuetz and Lyle Wood at guards; Byron Finnefrock and Denny Ptak forwards; and Jim Jacques, center. Stuart Nielsen, sixth member of the quintet, will probably see action at both center and forward.

Stewart's tournament team will also include Larry Pierce, Eugene Dasher, Jim Graves and Terry Ernst.

Better Food Habits Advised in "so-called" Declining Years

For less decline in the so-called "declining years," better food habits are recommended by Kathryn Cooley, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Nebraska.

For longer life, people need to give more consideration to diets that will make those extra years healthier, happier and more useful. Middle-aged persons especially should check what they eat. They should have diets that will prepare them for healthier later years. Even the elderly often can do much for themselves by learning what foods they need and why.

As research has shown that food has much to do with many of the chronic illnesses common among the elderly, more attention is being given to diets that will stave off these conditions. A nutritionally adequate diet for the elderly is similar to that for any adult. First emphasis should be on foods supplying nutrients for repair and upkeep of the body. Then other foods can be added as needed to meet energy needs. Because elderly people are less active than younger adults they need less foods solely for energy. But their need for protein, minerals and vitamins is the same or even greater. Thus, from middle age onwards well-balanced diets should include generous amounts of milk and milk products, lean meat, poultry, fish and eggs as well as vegetables and fruits, especially leafy green and yellow vegetables and tomatoes and citrus fruits.

The nutritional problems common among the elderly deserve greater understanding today when more than 8 percent of our population are over the age of 65 years. Three basic reasons for these problems are: poor food habits of long standing; low incomes; effect on appetite and food intake of difficult adjustments often required during this period of life.

Murdock in Race for State Cage Spot

The hopes of a Cass county entry in the Nebraska State Basketball tournament at Lincoln next week rest with the Murdock Bulldogs, who last week ousted defending title holders Alvo for the Class B district tournament.

Outside of Plattsmouth, which enters tournament play this week, Murdock is the only team still with a chance of gaining a state tournament berth.

The Bulldogs earned the district meet by edging the Alvo Orioles 52-50 Friday night, after earlier eliminating Eagle, Cass county conference tourney champion and one of the three teams to stop Murdock this season.

Coach Buzz Gakemeier's Bulldogs stopped Avoca, Eagle and Alvo to earn the playoff spot against Verdon at Peru Teachers College gymnasium this week. Verdon, Palmyra, Murdock and Johnson meet in the playoff for the regional representative to the state meet next week. Verdon and Murdock play at 7 p. m. Wednesday, while Palmyra and Johnson will tangle at 8:30.

Also represented Cass county in the tourney last year after taking the district and regional meets. The Orioles bowed out in the semi-finals of the 1953 meet. In the district meet, Alvo tripped Nehawka in the semi-finals of the district to earn the title shot against Murdock.

What to Do With Diverted Corn Acres?
The question is in many farmers' minds today, and it's a good question. Some of the answers may be forage sorghums for silage, grain sorgo, soybeans, more grass and legumes, temporary pastures or small grain. Any one or more of these crops may do the job pretty well. If your Extension Agent can supply you with information on how these crops may work in your program, he is ready to do so.

Unemployment rose more than seasonally in January, reaching 2,400,000. This was half a million more jobs than in early December, and about double the exceptionally low level of unemployment reached last October.

Tecumseh Hands Devils Season's Worst Defeat

Putting on their worst performance of the season, the Plattsmouth Blue Devils fell victim to an impressive Tecumseh quintet Friday night 60-35 in the final scheduled game of the season. It was the fourth loss in 18 games for the Devils.

The Tecumseh five rolled up the biggest margin of the season against Coach Merle Stewart's crew and the highest game total of the year. Prior to the Friday night game, Plattsmouth boasted a 39 per game defensive average.

There was never any doubt about the outcome of this game, as Plattsmouth fell behind early and never threatened to pull up. Reserves played nearly half the game and gave a creditable performance. But the count was too great when Stewart had a chance to jerk the starters.

Tecumseh rolled to a 16-6 first quarter lead and owned a 30-8 margin at halftime. In those first 16 minutes of play, Plattsmouth hit only one field goal.

The Tecumseh five never let up however as the Chiefs built a 47-17 third quarter margin. Stewart fired 12 players into action hopeful that one of the combinations would catch fire. Meanwhile 13 Tecumseh players seeing action with all but one entering the scoring column.

Early fouls on Finnefrock and Jacques put the pressure on the Devils, but the generally fine defensive play and under the boards work of the two giants was way off.

Though cold from the field, Plattsmouth had one of its better nights at the free throw line, hitting 19 of 33 to go with the eight field goals, five by guards Jon Schuetz and Lyle Wood, who led scoring with 8 and 9 points respectively. Tecumseh however was banging out 20 field goals and an equal number of free throws enroute to the 60 point total.

The two teams may still meet again in the district tournament Thursday night at Auburn, if they get by first round opponents Wednesday night.
