Know Your Candidate

One of the city's newer citizens is seeking the city's top political office in the city election this spring. He is Leo Meisinger, merchant and service station operator, who has entered the race for mayor on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Meisinger is opposing Mayor or Clement Woster, who will be seeking his fourth two-year term at the April 6 election.
But while a resident of the community only a short time, Mr. Meisinger has a lifelong background in the near vicinity. Native of Cass county, he was born and reared in the Cedar Creek and Louisville communities.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Meisinger, he was educated in the Cedar Creek and Louisville schools. Married to the former Jane Elliott of Plattsmouth, he came here in 1951 when he purchased the Firestone store and service station. Prior to coming to Plattsmouth, the Meisingers had resided in California for eight years.

Nearing the end of his third year at Plattsmouth, Mr. Meisinger will be seeking his first electoral office in Plattsmouth.

Leo Meisinger
At Plattsmouth, he is a member of the Plattsmouth Lions club.
