Slick Slickers Are Fashion News for Teens

BY EDNA MILES

THIS fall, slickers for teenagers have taken on a brand-new look in a black-and-white herringbone tweed effect. Same waterproof oilskin, same complete rainy weather protection, but now the coat's pretty enough to wear on fair days, too.

Budget-priced so that it can be paid for from a teen's allowance, the new slicker is worn with a matching head-bugging cloche. It's done in a lightweight cloth that supplies supple texture and strength without weight. Color is in the coating, which is applied many times to make the fine percale sheeting completely waterproof.

This year, the slicker comes in classic yellow, bright red, pastel pink, sky blue and navy and includes sizes for everyone in the family.

Trim is in form of brass hook-and-eye fasteners plus a black corduroy-lined collar.

In the 1920's, the well-loved slicker cracked and became tacky in no time at all. The 1954 slicker won't do this because machine oiling creates a uniform coating that keeps the fabric pliable and soft.

Keen for a teen is this herringbone-tweed slicker with black corduroy collar and matching cloche. Ideal for town or country.

FOREIGN HOLDINGS
Foreigners' investments in securities of United States corporations approached the $4,000,000,000 mark at the close of 1953, according to a study made by the Commerce Department. Investments in securities by foreigners and by American citizens living abroad amounted to $3,900,000,000 with Americans holding $3,000,000,000 of the total.

The "liberation" of Goa, Portuguese enclave in India, proved only an insignificant demonstration by teen-agers.
